Derby, a way of life

Derby Senior High, a way of life for 1,274 students, became more than a place where they spent six hours in classrooms. The passing days meant a time to be with friends, a time to think and dream, a time to plan and a time to live.

Each person's lifestyle held basic similarities, such as working, going to school, or just hanging out. Thus, no matter what personal interests were pursued, likenesses in everyone's lives existed. Informal clusters of students could be seen everywhere on campus as they shared their experiences. On the other hand, some people chose to be alone to reflect on their experiences.

The Derby way of life affected all students. Whether they chose for it to happen or not, they were touched.

Who knows what mischievous thoughts are being formed in the minds of sophomores Donald Pankey, Todd Meckenstock, Steve Caret and Mike King.

With exuberance Mr. Ross Hearn, vocal music teacher, directs the Girls Glee during the Fall Concert.

Displaying a mood of tranquility, Mrs. Erlene Farr, secretary, gazes from the office window into the courtyard.

While a group converses in front of the candy machine in the Student Union, James Loop, sr., learns the art of waiting.

Quotes from our readers

The Election

"I voted for Reagan because he straightened out California. He'll strengthen our defense." Leslie Spaulding, sr.

"Of the three choices we had, Jimmy Carter had already proven that he wasn't a good leader. John Anderson didn't have a chance. That only left Ronald Reagan." -Ann Haig, soph.

"I would've voted for Carter. He knew what was going on in Iran." Ricky McMillon, soph.

"I wouldn't have voted." -Carmen Losey, jr.

On Nov. 4, Ronald Reagan, Republican, was elected president by a large majority.

The 7:30 a.m. Blues

"I liked coming at 7:35 at the start of the year. The band didn't have to come early." -Shelley Brown, soph.

"I hated it. I was so tired." -Julie Jones, jr.

"It gave me more time to mess around after school." -Paul Houser, soph.

"I liked coming early because we got home earlier in the day." -Mallory Wilkinson, sr.

With his head thrown back, Tim Galloway, sr., sets the band's pace. They marched in the Fiesta Bowl Parade.

Arizona Or Bust

"It's great that they picked a band from such a small town to be recognized like this." -Stephanie Nelson, soph.

"The band being able to participate in such a big event shows how much a small school can achieve." -Bill Daniels, sr.

"I wish I were going." -Margaret Anthony, soph.

"The band shouldn't complain that we're having Hollyball while they're gone. We have the right to a good time, too!" -Pam Burnett, jr.

"The band deserves this trip. Everyone wants to be the best." -Stephanie Baumfalk, jr.

The Iran Conflict

"We should just sit, wait, and pray. Patience is always best. Violence will get us nowhere." -Sandra Alexander, sr.

"I don't think there's anything we can do because we don't want to go to war." Darren Squires, soph.

"We should stop talking and start reacting." -Herman Allen, soph.

"Carter is doing about all he can. It seemed we had a chance at getting the hostages freed, so it would be foolish to do something to make them mad." -Doug Osborn, sr.

"If I were a hostage, I would hope my country would take every possible action to release me." -Cindy Davis, sr.

Who Shot J.R.?

"Pam. She was constantly fighting with him." -Joe Rinke, jr.

"His son. Because who wants a father like that?" -Michele Richie, soph.

"Vaughn Leland. J.R. made him go broke." -Ellen Hughes, sr.

"I don't know, and I don't care." -Bruce Sherman, soph.

"Dusty Farlow. He loved Sue Ellen." -Theresa Burgess, sr.

"Pam. He killed her baby, and he's real mean to everybody. She got sick of it." -Brian Ritenour, soph.

"The Ayatollah shot J.R." -Melanie Anderson, sr.

Spirit adds life

Enthusiasm abounded during Spirit Week with more student and faculty participation than ever before.

Monday started the week as Western Day with students and faculty members wearing cowboy-hats, boots, and holsters. Tuesday presented a variety of sweatsuits for Sweat Day. Wednesday, Color Day, followed as the day with the most participation. Seniors wore red, juniors wore purple, and sophomores wore blue. Sunglasses, Bermuda shorts, cameras, and wide-rimmed hats could be seen all over the school on Thursday, Tourist Day. The week ended on Friday with Outerspace Day. Martians and other varieties of outerspace creatures were seen in the halls.

Student Council purchased about 350 prizes for the week. Each day there were different winning classes which participated in the spirit costume of the day.

The office showed 100% involvement each day. During the week, Mrs. Peggy Unkel, bookkeeper, became a regular part of the morning routine as she presented the daily announcements over the intercom.

The sophomore class won the hall decorating contest. Seniors received second place, and the juniors placed third. "Though the juniors did not win, they were the most helpful in cleaning up the halls," remarked Mrs. Bobbie Evans, StuCo sponsor.

Life begins at 3:10

When the bell rang at 3:10 p.m., most students left the building to participate in varied activities of their own interests. Some students began life after school by working, but other students lived a life of leisure

The working students spent long, hard hours at different places of business in Derby and Wichita. Other students spent these same hours talking on the phone, doing homework, watching television, and doing other activities which interested them

Other after-school activities included locker decorations for athletes and birthday celebrations. Also, the ROTC Color Guard practiced after school, as did the athletic teams and spirit groups

In the meantime, some faculty members also became involved in the hustle and bustle of the outside world after hours. They occupied their time by participating in activities, such as teaching at night schools, painting houses, and running their own businesses. On the other hand, some faculty members stayed within the walls of the school, involving themselves in personal interests which included weight lifting, aerobics, sponsoring clubs and organizations which met after school, and coaching

Celebrations of life

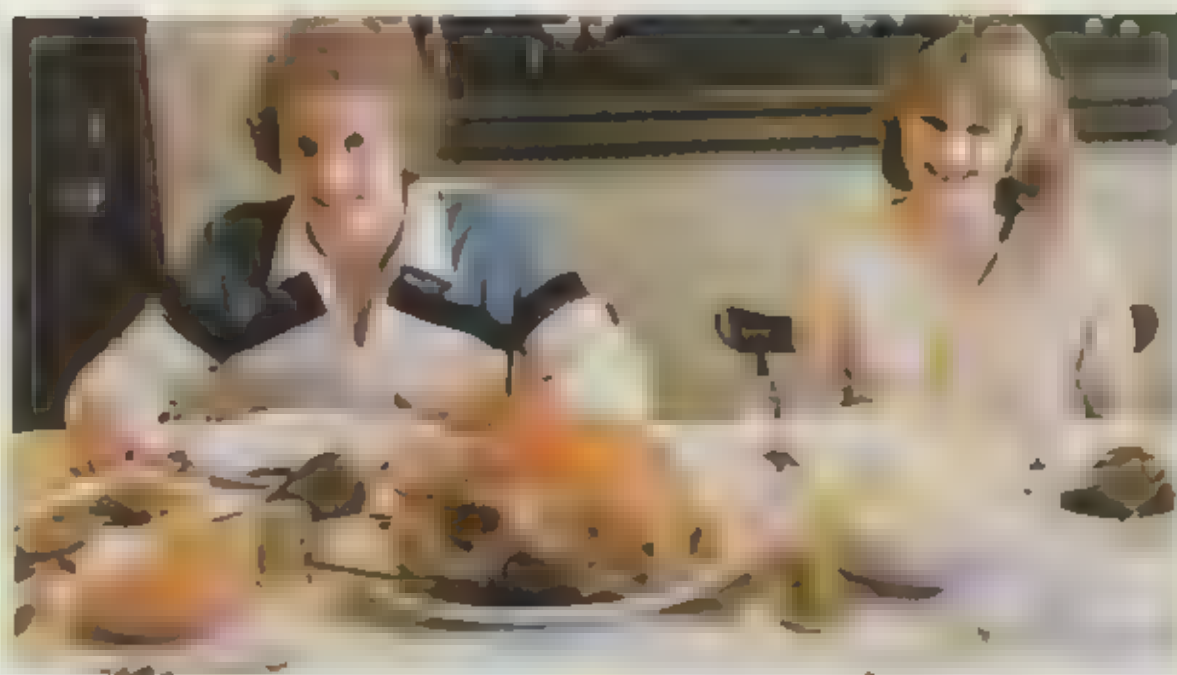

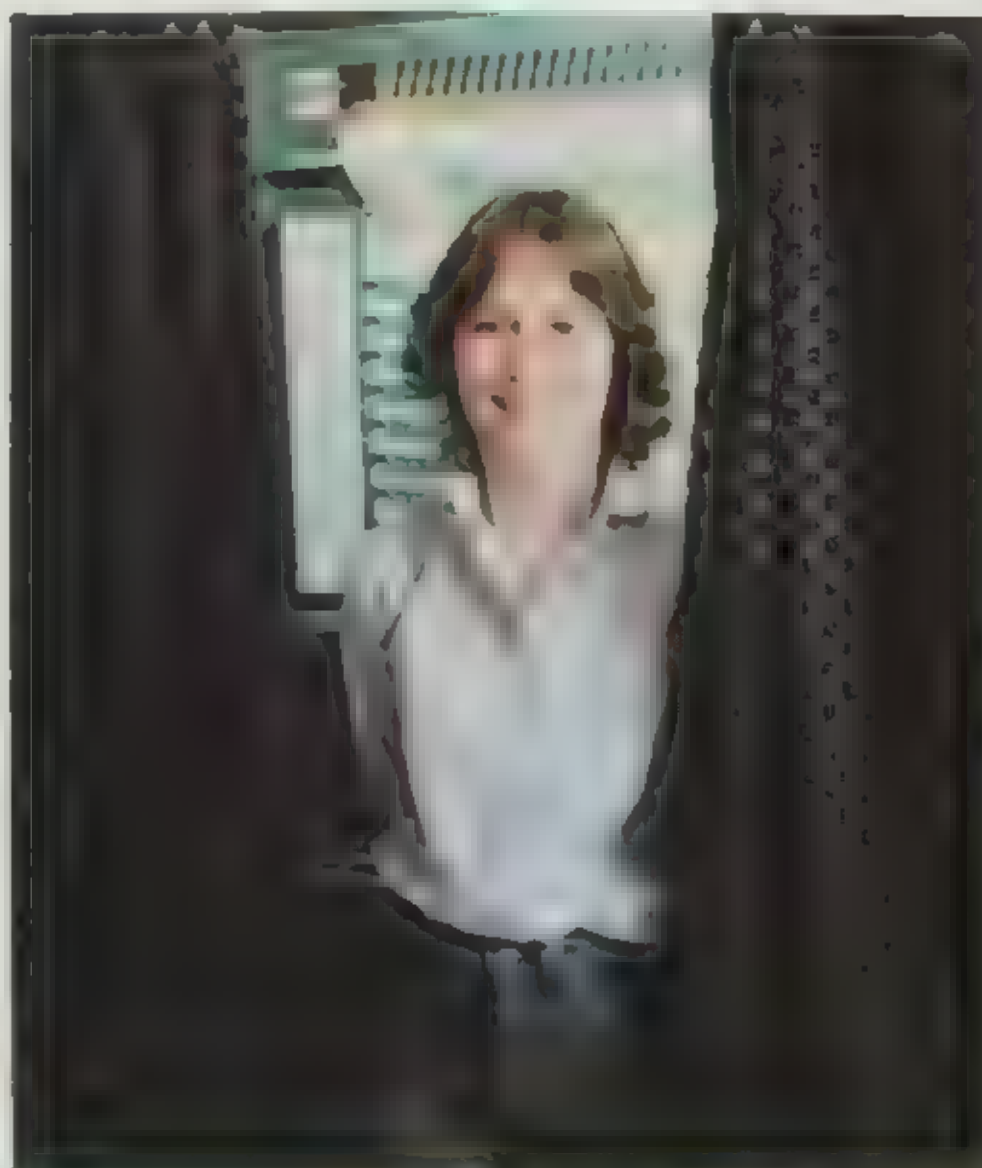

Celebrations became a way of life for most students. They took advantage of every opportunity to celebrate

Annual holidays brought an air of anticipation to the classrooms. On days before various occasions, spontaneous parties happened throughout the building

In addition, locker decorations and signs throughout the halls informed the student body of birthdays. Though some took the traditional routes of celebrating, other ways included dragging Douglas, voting for the first time and holding TGIF parties

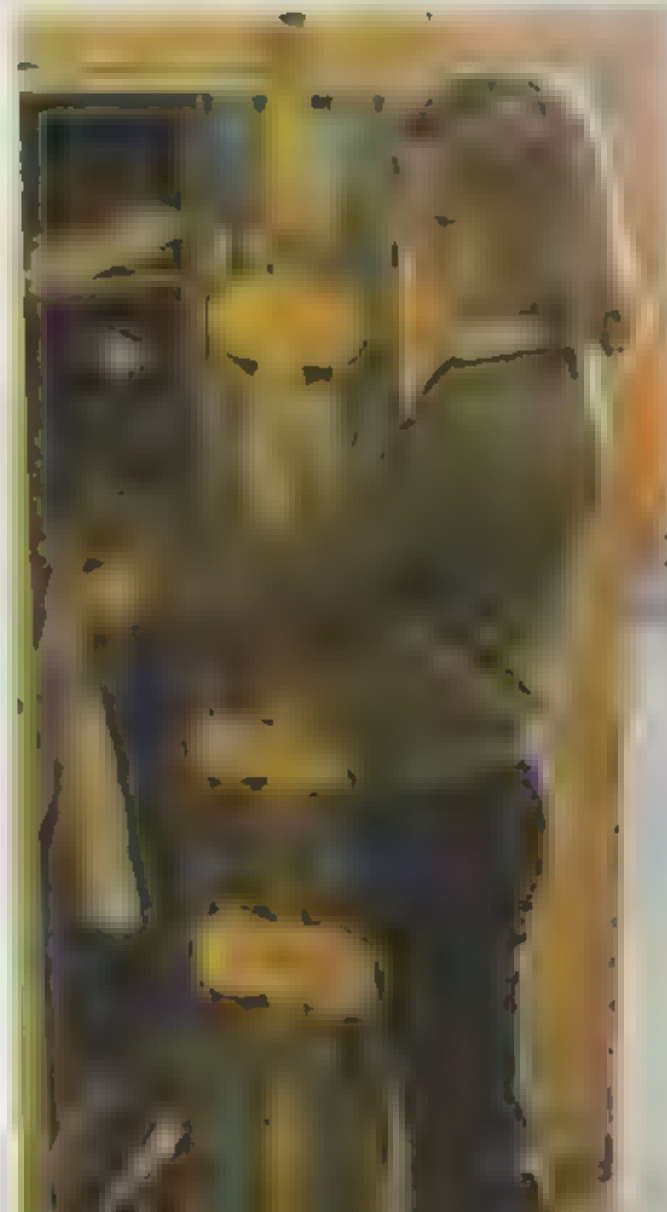

Students found that their holiday priorities had changed since childhood. For example, as children, Christmas meant receiving presents, but the teenagers became involved in the hustle and bustle of buying gifts and attending special holiday functions. As kids, Halloween meant trick or treating, but as the years passed, the students became more interested in parties and vandalism. However, Thanksgiving seemed to be spent in the same manner as always which was at home with the family relaxing and watching football games

Spending Life

While many spent their free time just killing time, others distinguished themselves in hobbies and other creative self expressions. These students and faculty members invested a part of their lives in imaginative projects and collections.

An outstanding example included Laurie Gould, sr., who traveled during the summer with a national choir, "One Spirit." Laurie was chosen to be in the ensemble while visiting in Ohio; however, the group performed all over the United States.

Mrs. Ferne Cloutier, business teacher, has been a licensed pilot for twelve years. Her husband and son also shared her enthusiasm for adventure. Though it was a rather expensive hobby to fly the family's 1959 Piper Tri-pacer, Mrs. Cloutier remarked, "Sometimes we get up early on Sunday mornings and fly down to Oklahoma for breakfast."

"Cake decorating is like anything else. It takes a lot of time and a lot of practice," said Mr. Kendall Pyle, principal, while putting the finishing touches on a birthday cake. Mr. Pyle began decorating cakes when he was fourteen years old. Since his parents owned a bakery, the tradition of cake decorating ran in his family. Mr. Pyle added, "The largest cake I ever made was for the chairman of the board for Pepsi-Cola. His wife, actress Joan Crawford, ordered the bottle-shaped cake which took me nine hours to make."

Senior Ron Hess turned Dance Unlimited from a creative hobby to a rewarding business. He and his partner, Lane Myers, graduate provided the sound and light at several school dances.

Personal satisfaction comes for Mr. Bob Stoneking, printing instructor, and his wife JoAnn as they relax in front of the fireplace. Mr. Stoneking built the bookcase, loveseat, fireplace and room in which they are seated.

Life in the fast lane

Racing engines and screeching tires reflected a part of the lives of many students who drove cars.

The car became the focal point in many students' lives. Despite the foreign oil problems and the high price of gasoline students could not imagine life without cars. A majority of students spent money on monthly payments, insurance, gas and the general upkeep of the car. Nevertheless, most students sacrificed willingly.

Some car owners, especially guys, spent all of their free time under the hood or behind the wheel. Even though inflation, bad weather, lack of time and other problems accompanied owning or driving a car, most wheels kept rolling.

Many weekends and evenings, they jumped in cars and headed for Baltimore Avenue to cruise, talk to friends and meet new faces. However, when Derby lost its excitement, some headed to Wichita to cruise Douglas Avenue where they showed off and flirted with the opposite sex.

Some businesses, such as drive-in movies and drive-thru restaurants, thrived because of cars. In Derby, Hardee's became the meeting place for those students with wheels.

As the year progressed, cars became smaller, and the students became aware that the sub-compacts were taking over. Consequently, Detroit was forced to find an answer to the foreign car boom. Their efforts brought about the Chevrolet Citation, the Chrysler K-Cars, the Ford Escort, the Dodge Aries and the Pontiac Sunbird.

While the majority of older Americans appeared to have lost their lust for cars, the students' love of cars was still as strong as ever.

Hard work, determination and money helped Dave Monson, sr., restore his '39 Dodge to mint condition.

Steve "Zack" Wood, sr., fights the high price of gasoline by pumping his own gas. Self-serve stations became popular since they were cheaper in price than full-service stations.

Class Life

Senior Class

Careful budgeting early in the year allowed the senior class to have funds for various projects, such as graduation, which was its major expense. Seniors chose their class motto, song, flower and colors in December.

Doug Stover (president), Karla Lilly (vice-president), Brenda Hopper (secretary) and Melissa Richmond (treasurer) were selected to hold offices. In addition, Laura Brown, Bob Bumgarner, Ellen Hughes, Mike Morrow and Wendy Milanese held the positions of class representatives.

The following comments were made by seniors in regard to their feelings about being a senior.

"Being a senior is a one of a kind experience. You think a lot about your past twelve years and your future." -Susan Miller

"It's great being a senior! After all these years, we made it." -Gary Riley

"I'm glad it's my last year of school. I'm tired of the same grind, although I will really miss it." -Karen Robinson

"I feel superior!" -Robert Moore

"I like being a senior because we are finally the leaders instead of the followers. It's also a year that may determine what we'll do in the future." -Lois Lang

"There's nothing special about it so far." -JoEllen Parker

"The problem with being a senior is that it's your last year of knowing what you'll be doing day to day." -Malcom Oliver

Sophomore Class

The class of '83 made its mark on the school early in the year. The sophomores were victorious in the hall decorating and float homecoming contests. Being a sophomore meant a year of new and sometimes confusing experiences.

Leading the class were Laura Cary (president), Andrea DeVarenes (vice-president), Kristi Bangle (secretary) and Margaret Anthony (treasurer). Carol Brawley, Pam Murray, Brian Ritenour, Frank Rodriguez and Dana Venable served as the class representatives.

In regard to how they liked being sophomores, the following people commented:

"I like being a sophomore, especially since the sophomore class is so spirited and has lots of pride. I think winning the hall decorations contest and getting first place for the homecoming float shows the pride the sophomore class has." -Karen Parker

"Everybody makes you feel like a little kid." -Mary Jolly

"You have a lot more freedom and women in high school." -Bill Gilmore

"I feel proud to be a sophomore because we are a class that really gets things done." -Jené Lock

"The juniors and seniors act like they own the place. At pep rallies, when sophomores try to do something, they get booed." -Cody Bredengerd

"I don't mind being a sophomore. It gives you a chance to meet different people." -Sue Koppelman

"I feel small at pep assemblies." -Carol Brawley

"It's all right knowing that we're in high school finally." -Paul Houser

Junior Class

With the responsibility of paying for the prom, the junior class put its efforts into making money for the event. Thus, the juniors held the annual Powder Puff football game and sold candy to raise money.

Annie Templin (president), Fred Brown (vice-president) and Jeff Mays (secretary) served as the class officers. Until she moved, Angela McLaren was the treasurer. At press time her replacement had not yet been selected. Teresa Barnes, Judy Duda, Julie Pierson, Teresa Sanchez, and Jill Vedock were chosen class representatives

Being a junior brought the following responses:

"It's better than being a sophomore and not as much hassle as being a senior." -Vicki Kuyper

"I'm no longer a little sophomore." -Randy Burr

"Being a junior is great; it reminds me that I only have one more year of school." -Fred Clare

"I love it. It gives us a whole year to decide what we're going to do as seniors." -Ron Curnutt

"You are in the middle of two classes. You aren't a little sophomore, and you're not a senior leaving in the spring." -Andrea Freund

"It's nothing spectacular. I'm sure my senior year will be great." -Helen Miller

"You don't get picked on being a junior." -David Gile

"I like it because we're so rowdy." -Eddie Harrington

LIFE

Learning, The Zest Of Life

Six hours a day, five days a week, 180 days a year, students gathered to continue their education. Although each individual experienced a different schedule, similar emotions were felt by all.

Very few people escaped the anxiety of taking that one test that had to be passed. On the other hand, anyone attending school knew the thrill of getting a passing grade after cramming for hours, the excitement of being set free Friday afternoon, and the endless stretch of days before spring break. Those expanding their interests were rewarded with the stimulation of their minds.

Anxiety, excitement and monotony were only a few of the feelings brought on by that part of life devoted to classes.

Positions change in administration

Mr. L.L. Van Petten, superintendent for the past fifteen years, announced that the 1980-81 year would be his last in U.S.D. #260.

The Board initiated many new policies into the school system. One major change involved the elimination of the driving range at the senior high which provided more parking for the students.

There were no new members on the Board, but their jobs were somewhat reversed. Bruce Blake gave up the job of president to Jeff Watson, and Ralph Weigandt assumed the position of vice-president.

An administrative change occurred in December at Carlton Junior High, which brought a change at the senior high also. Carlton's principal resigned, so Mr. Dennis Williams, DSH assistant principal, went to Carlton to fill the post. Mr. Don Taylor, senior high counselor, moved up to fill Mr. Williams' position.

Clerical personnel relate to students

Although each secretary performed special clerical duties, they all had one job in common, helping students.

Mrs. Linda Nichols, Guidance Office secretary, remarked, "Kids are natural and open. That is why I enjoy them." Mrs. Diana Nelson, secretary to the assistant principals, commented, "With kids around, there is always something different going on. That makes the job not so routine."

Working in the system for her 20th year, Mrs. Peggy Unkel, bookkeeper, explained her reason for staying, "I like working with the students."

Staffs encouraged to meet standards

Every day approximately 3,000 students ate lunch prepared by the cafeteria staff of USD 260. Fixing the food was just one of the jobs that had to be done. The dietician, Mrs. Eileen Blick, planned the menus following government guidelines. After every meal, Mrs. Shirley Donovan, supervisor, had to record exactly what was served. These records were subject to government auditing at anytime.

Meanwhile, the custodial staff complied with rules set by the management consultant team during the previous year.

Student custodian, Gary Riley, sr., preferred working at school "for the good and steady hours." He added, "If you stay in one place awhile, you know what to expect on the job."

Students receive personalized aid

A few services offered were help with schedule changes, personal counseling, more parent involvement, and new learning opportunities

The counseling office spent much time preparing for the next year since the senior high will become a four year school. Mr. Don Taylor, counselor, assumed responsibility for preparation of the registration guide for the 1981-82 and 1982-83 years. He also coordinated new class descriptions from all departments. Mrs. Donna Black took over Mr. Taylor's sophomore counseling duties after he was promoted to the assistant principal's position. However, he continued coordinating the planning for a four-year school.

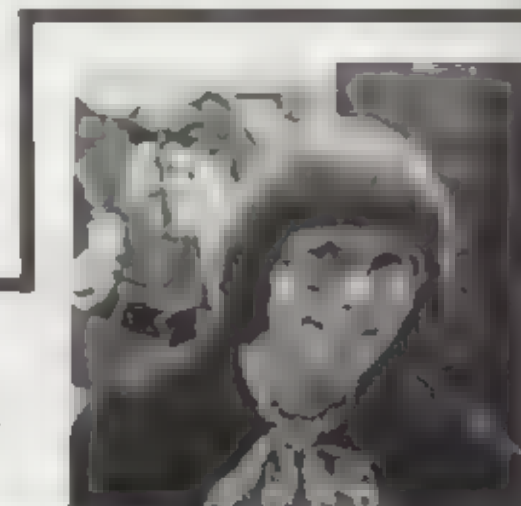

Meanwhile, the Special Education Department devised methods of meeting the federally mandated programs for gifted, as well as other special students. In this regard, two new faculty members were added: Mrs. Agnes Sherman, psychologist, and Mrs. Judy Watts, gifted education teacher. Mrs. Sherman gave standardized I.Q. tests and helped determine which classes some students should take to meet their special needs. In the meantime, Mrs. Watts helped foster the gifted students' talents. As a result, these students were enrolled in some enriching, independent studies.

Also, the Alternative Learning Room obtained a new teacher, Mr. Mickey Johnson. The room was used for disciplinary purposes where students served in-school suspensions

Students receive new opportunities

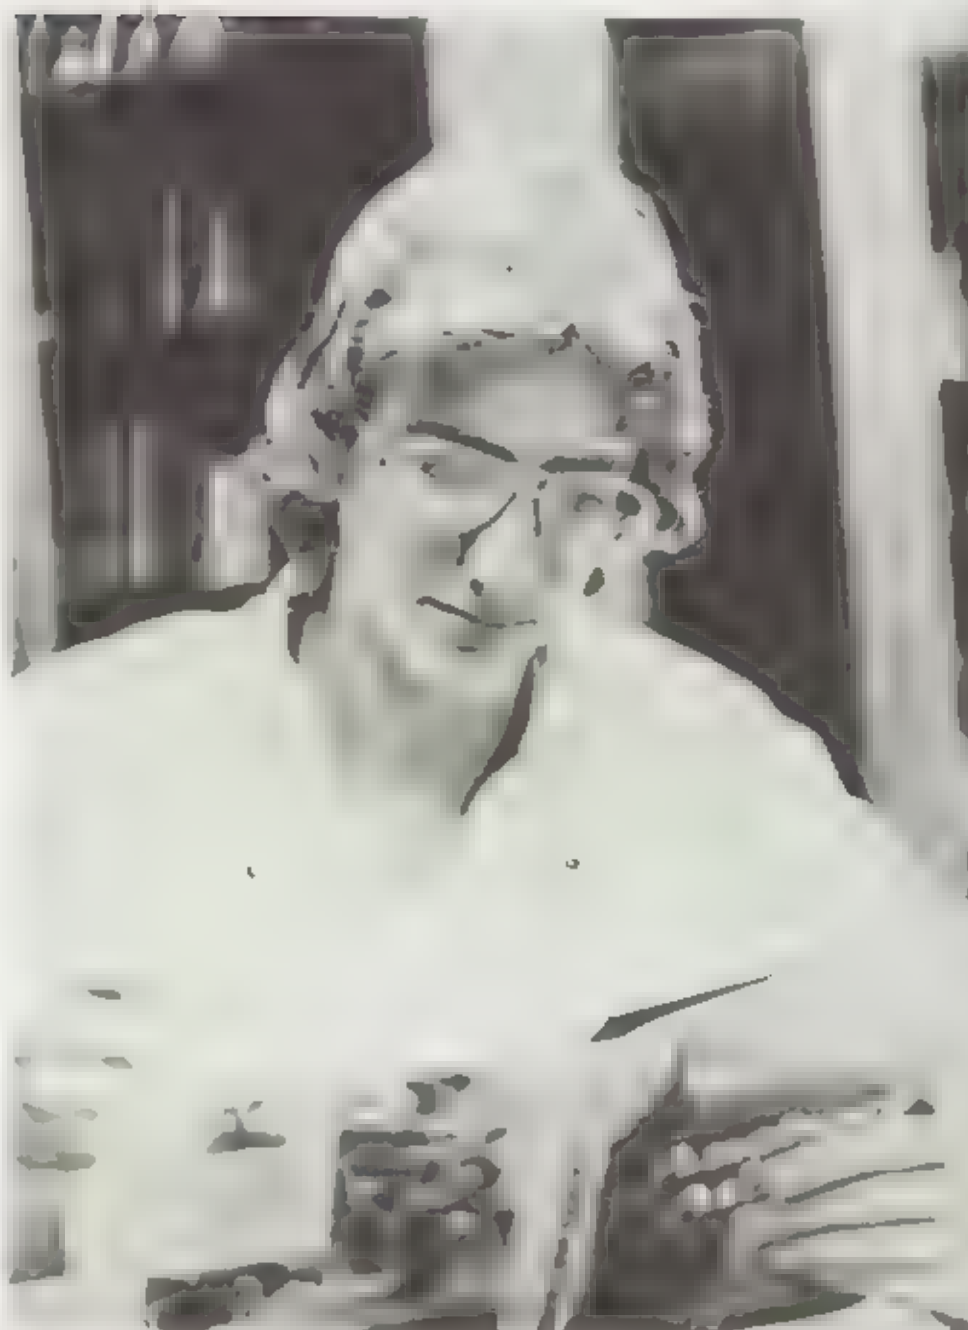

The students that participated in the Library Science Class learned how to file cards, check out books to fellow students, find materials and shelve books. Mrs. Janet Heidebrecht, media specialist, taught the course.

The Media Center received Title IV B funds from the United States government to purchase new video outlets for some adjoining classrooms. This form of watching video-taped and live television programs in the classroom took pressure off the library classroom. Previously all video-taped programs had been watched only in the library classroom.

At the beginning of the second semester, a Library Advisory Committee was formed at the request of Mr. Kendall Pyle, principal. The committee offered suggestions regarding problem areas in the library. The committee consisted of one administrator, two media specialists, five teachers, and one student representative. As a result of their recommendations, stiffer library policies were put into effect, and a more traditional library atmosphere was achieved.

The Business Department added Mr. Steve Einsel as the new instructor of the Marketing I and II classes. The department gave students a choice of eight different courses, which prepared them for careers in many office occupations. These courses included a new one, Leadership, which was taught by Mrs. Bobbie Evans, who was also the Student Council sponsor. The new class gave Student Council leaders an opportunity to organize their projects during sixth hour.

Classes continue despite alterations

Mr. Boyd Ayer's resignation affected both the Physical Education and Drivers Education Departments when he resigned in the middle of first semester. Mr. Howard Schufelberger transferred from Derby Junior High to teach three hours of Drivers Education. Additionally, Mr. Paul Evans, also from Derby Junior High, took over Mr. Ayer's two physical education classes. Other changes in Drivers Education involved driving locale, grading system, and textbooks. Elimination of the driving range requirement allowed more "on the road" instruction. Experimentation with the Pass/Fail method of grading was part of the program. However, some complained that an "A student receiving only a Pass for a grade would be in the same category as a "D" student receiving the same grade of Pass. New texts and workbooks for the classroom were purchased for use in the second semester. The vehicles used by the department were loaned for the sixth consecutive year by Scholfield Brothers Pontiac of Wichita.

Except for the addition of Mr. Evans, the Physical Education Department stayed basically the same. Classes such as Tennis and Fencing received new equipment. The more popular classes seemed to be the team sports such as volleyball and basketball.

Performers do major alterations

Major changes affected the atmosphere and performance in the Fine Arts Department.

The Vocal Music Department, under the direction of Mr. Ross Hearn, purchased an acoustical shell. This aided in performance and helped the various choral groups' concert atmosphere. The shell was placed behind the groups; and while they were singing, all of the sound was thrown into the audience.

The Foreign Language Department, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Beckelhimer, Mr. Jim Hartshorn and Mrs. Trudy Rumble, held various dinners in order that the students could sample different foods of the country that they were studying.

Meanwhile, the Drama Department, under the direction of Mrs. Jan Eaton, had many alterations to their previous ways of making and presenting the annual school productions. One of their new activities included the dinner theater. The dinner theater was a musically inclined play preceded by a meal in the Commons. There was an admission charge in order to cover the cost of the caterers. Another new addition to the department was a mime troupe, which was formed from the crowd of Drama Thespians. The troupe performed at various hospitals, care homes and children's day care centers.

During a performance of the Children's Theater, "Cinderella, Cinderella," the Handsome Prince (Craig Stout, jr.) asks children from the audience if they will be his dance partner. The Wicked Stepmother (Brenda Houser, sr.) and Stepsisters (Treva Maxwell, jr., and Rhonda Schlegel, sr.) look on

Variety becomes key for learning

The Industrial Education classes combined building and artistic abilities to create a float for the Homecoming Parade. They entered their float in the organizations division of the parade and won first place. All of the Industrial Education classes were involved in the construction of the winning float.

Industrial Education teachers' goals were to try to acquaint the students with the materials used in industry. Therefore, the students would be prepared to find and to maintain a good job upon leaving school.

The Home Economics teachers endeavored to broaden the students' knowledge, teach goals and values and expose the students to a variety of concepts through the different courses that were offered.

Meanwhile, variety seemed to be the key word in Home Economics. The department used numerous resources such as guest speakers, comparison shopping sprees, and field trips.

Child Care Classes I and II, taught by Mrs. Ruby Griffiths, underwent an alteration and became Child Development. They were combined, and the curriculum changed. The new class change was due to the limited availability of positions in nearby child care centers where the second year students worked.

Additions create bolder concepts

The addition of Television I, a limited class taught by Mrs. Ruby Brumfield, brought about new ideas to students enrolled. Basic Journalism became Print and Electronic Media in order to create a new outlook for the subject

New teachers added to the department were Mrs. Joella Lock, Mrs. Marsha Chappelow, Mrs. Judy Hampleman and Mrs. Virginia Hodges. Mrs. Hodges taught half days for Mrs. Sondra Vedock second semester when Mrs. Vedock took the position of Adult Education Coordinator.

Due to many limited optional courses, required classes became overcrowded. As a result, teachers found it difficult to give as much individual help to each student. Even though this occurred, most students were able to reach their individual goals

Enrollment rises; additions result

An upward trend in enrollment led to the expansion of the Math and Science Departments. Both saw an increase in student participation at all levels

Two new teachers, Mr. David Carrell and Mrs. Sheryl Lumpee, kept the number of math instructors at six. Ranging from Basic Math to Analysis II, six credits of math were offered. Again, many students had the opportunity to use an on-line computer terminal tied in with the computer system of the Wichita Public Schools.

Due to the 1981-1982 proposed change to a four-year high school, architects planned extensive remodeling and an addition to the science wing. The Board of Education approved and started building the estimated $500,000 project which would add five new classrooms to H-hall. In the meantime, two science classes, taught by Mr. Don Fisher, met in the Derby Junior High building. Also, new microscopes aided learning in seven science classes

Students practice democratic trends

The Air Force Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps (AFJROTC) obtained new girls' uniforms, which consisted of new slacks, instead of skirts, and better tailored jackets. These outfits complied with the United States Air Force regulations. In addition, the new uniforms provided a better image for the female cadets. Both female and male cadets wore their uniforms every Thursday as a means of expressing identity and unity.

The Social Science Department was popular with many students as a required course as well as a selective course. The history teachers stressed current events in order to prepare more worldly conscious students and help them to make better choices in the future. Several government classes also stressed current events, especially since the national presidential election provided a rich source of material. In this regard, several classes viewed the democratic system in action at some of the local election polls.

LIFE

ACTIVITIES

Activities, The Spirit Of Life

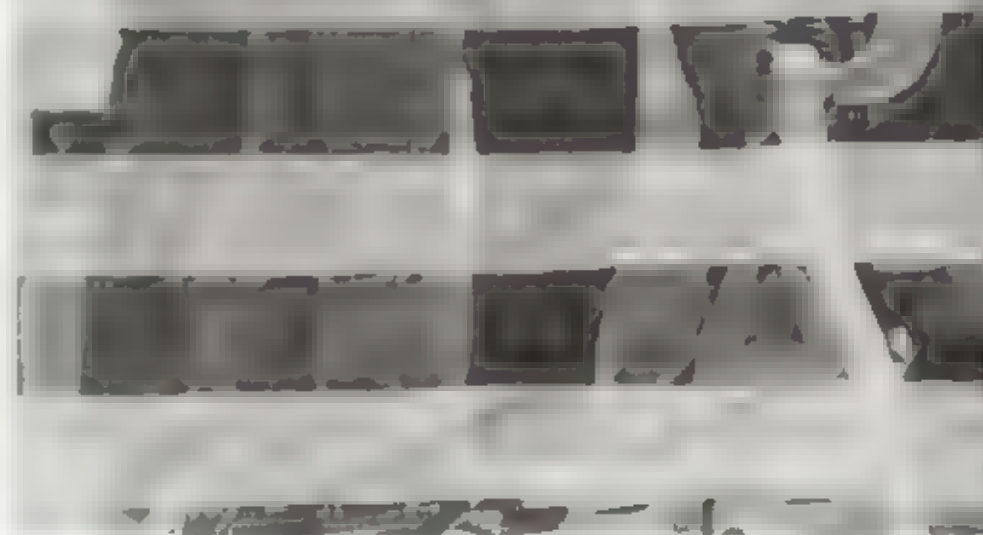

The answer to many students' individual needs resulted in being involved in activities outside of the classroom. These clubs and organizations helped pass the time and interrupt the daily grind of school.

Coming together with their peers for a few hours a week, participants of clubs organized and planned many activities. Some of these activities included band fund raising events, the Junior/Senior Prom, the first College Bowl and a Spring Festival

Many organizations set goals to meet. The determination to reach these goals vitalized not only the lives of the members and sponsors, but also touched the lives of people in the community.

Younger students monopolize honors

"The novices had a very good year," stated Mr. Ron Gore, debate coach. They won five trophies in various tournaments, and the experienced debaters won three. Among these, two were first place trophies won by Val Hillgren, jr., and Leslie Spaulding, sr., in the Topeka High Novice Tournament and by sophomores Kathy Hillgren and Tammy Barrett in the El Dorado Open Tournament. Along with these achievements, the Debate Team won tenth place at the National Forensics League. The highlight of the season was when they placed third at Regionals.

Mr. Gore also sponsored forensics, which was divided into many different parts consisting of Orations, Informative and Extemporaneous Speaking, Interpretations, Duet Acting, and Lincoln-Douglas Debates. The Forensics Team did well at the State Tournament with Donna Anderson, jr., Dramatic Interpretations, and Melanie Anderson, sr., Humorous Interpretation, winning 1's and gold medals.

Diligent staff excels in competition

The newspaper printed informative and entertaining stories with the aim of having the readers be as proud of the paper as the staff. According to Mrs. Ruby Brumfield, advisor, "The newspaper was put out in spite of obstacles. Despite a new and inexperienced staff and lack of equipment, Luanne Young, sr., editor, felt they had come a long way by the first semester. At Wichita State University and Independence, many members ranked high in competition.

Printing a paper every two weeks involved a great amount of time on top of school work. Once given an assignment a staff member had only three days to complete it. The final copies were produced in the Vocational Printing Department.

Persistence and dedication abound

Meeting deadlines, pressure, working after school and revising work were all a part of producing the yearbook. Occasional parties helped to lighten the work load and lift morale throughout the year. Editor, Julia Armstrong, sr., conveyed her feelings, "I would like to compliment the staff. We held together through both good times and bad."

Revision of work required pride and determination. The photographers received an opportunity to show off their individual talents on the color and division pages. After winning a Kodak contest, Ron Hess, photo editor, sr., had a picture displayed in the Equitable Gallery in New York City. The exhibit included winners of local contests conducted by newspapers all over North America. Other members won awards at Wichita State University and Independence, Kansas.

Smaller group brings closeness

Campus Life gave students a time to come together for fellowship with other Christian teenagers. Campus Life was mainly a Bible study and sharing group. Club meetings consisted of Bible lessons, rap sessions and listening to guest speakers.

Since the club was smaller than in previous years, both students and sponsors found there was a new closeness. The members felt more at ease to share their problems and their answered prayers.

Campus Life met on activity day, and the meetings usually lasted an hour. The club members did not meet during the summer due to conflicting schedules. Sandra Alexander, sr., held the position of president. Mrs. Sharon Thom sponsored the group, while Mrs. Pat Born co-sponsored them.

Conference brings new friendships

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA) state conference, held at Rock Springs, Kansas, was the major activity of the club. Rock Springs offered a weekend retreat, where area FCA groups got together for fellowship with each other. The state conference brought many closer to Christ and brought about many new friendships.

FCA was a discussion group where students got together to talk about Christian growth on a personal level with fellow classmates and friends. FCA benefitted its members by giving them the opportunity to share their problems openly with others. The meetings were held at night and usually lasted an hour and a half

Ambitious groups strive for trips

Outstanding performances and high rated competitions led the Panther Marching Band to participate in the National Pageant of Bands Parade in Phoenix, Arizona. The parade was held in mid-December, prior to the Fiesta Bowl football game. Having received the invitation in the spring, the band accepted and began frantically working toward the goal of $25,000 which covered traveling and lodging expenses.

In early February the orchestra began preparation for a trip to Chicago to hear a performance by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. The trip was taken in early May, and each student was responsible for his own expenses.

Mr. Gary Burrow, orchestra director, commented that "music is hard work if you are going to do it right, just like anything else." That explained why the department accomplished so many outstanding achievements

Colorful costumes dazzle audiences

The Vocal Music Department produced many colorful shows throughout the busy year. The first annual Madrigals Feast at Christmastime and a Broadway Review in the spring revealed a very multi-talented and energetic group.

'Merrie Olde England' was brought to life during the Madrigals Feast. Each Philharmonic member wore a costume of a Renaissance towns person. Chansonettes served more than 400 dinner guests, wearing unbleached muslin dresses with "duster" caps. Madrigals performed as the Royal Court. With bejeweled satin garments they entered the Commons in Renaissance style.

Dedication of drama students helped make the feast a success by providing an authentic setting. Chansonette member and drama student, Rhonda Schlegel, sr., designed all of the garments worn by the Royal Court and with help designed and sewed each serving wench's dress. A total of 180 yards of muslin adorned the Chansonettes.

Dried beef, cheese balls, dried bread and gingerbread was served as the Renaissance meal with hot wassail to drink. Mrs. Kay Keynolds, foods instructor, along with her cooking classes, prepared the delicacies and helped to serve.

The spring brought high ratings at festival and was trailed by a Broadway Review. Top tunes from current musicals, including 'FAME' and "The Wiz," highlighted the evening. Miss Indy Deickgrafe, 1975 graduate, helped with dance routines. Dance numbers were rehearsed in class time and after school and performed by the ensembles. "Some choir students did not put their best effort forward until the performance. That's when everyone wanted to be the best," commented Lisa Lopez, jr.

Selling of projects brings experience

In December the Art Association members held their first sale of the year, the Christmas Sale. The sale consisted of the selling of many art projects ranging from pen and ink to pottery. "It's a good experience for the art students," commented Mr. Richard Dolloff, art instructor. The sale provided the students the chance to show their work as they also made money to buy more supplies and cover many expenses.

The club also hosted the third annual Art in Action night in April. This gave both the club members and all other art students the chance to show and sell their work. The public was invited to come and observe many art students working on projects and to look at many individual displays. They were also invited to take a tour of the school which helped acquaint many people with where their tax dollars were spent. The atmosphere created an educational and pleasant experience for both the students and the adults.

Tours capture interested students

The Medical Careers Club visited St. Joseph Hospital for the Places for People Workshop in March. Having many tours available, ranging from a family practice session to many therapy and technology sessions, each student was allowed to choose two of the offered programs that were of interest to him.

"I really thought it was interesting. I learned a lot about the medical profession that I was not aware of," commented Ellen Hughes, sr.

Selling Cheerful House products became the club's working project. Many different items were included, such as jewelry, candles, and a variety of different cards.

The club's membership increased over last year, although the number of people at the meetings grew smaller.

Dedicated students make new sound

Broadcast Media, a new radio broadcasting organization which received its charter in the middle of last year, consisted of five people. These people were "very dedicated, very interested and talented," commented Mrs Ruby Brumfield, sponsor

Summing up the club's history, Mrs. Brumfield stated that during the first year, there was only interest. "The second year, they had two turntables (for records), but nothing else really to work with." Senior Mark Dehncke's father carpeted the room to sound-proof it. Mark was a charter member. Later, they acquired two new turntables and were making progress.

The club reached its goal, which was to share what they did with the students. The members did this by taping a broadcast (according to schedule), the day before it was to be heard by the student body. The tape was then taken to the Commons to be heard during all three lunches. The broadcasts by KDSH were informative as well as enjoyable. The daily bulletin was included for those students who missed it in the morning.

New production adds to activities

Drama Club sponsored two productions: a melodrama in Hand Park on the Fourth of July and, for the first time, a musical dinner theater, which was catered by Ballinger's of Augusta.

Drama Club members sold Homecoming mums to raise money for a variety of uses, such as the banquet to initiate Thespians.

The club members met when they had no major productions in rehearsal. During these meetings, they did things to "relax and enjoy." The members had no obligations. "A person could just come to meetings and not be in productions, but that usually didn't happen," stated Mrs. Jan Eaton, drama coach.

On November 7, Drama Club members and Department went to the area Thespian Convention. From there they attended the state convention.

'Cinderella, Cinderella'

Drama II and III classes presented their second annual production of Children's Theater at the beginning of first semester.

The cast traveled to nine pre-schools and day care centers to perform "Cinderella, Cinderella." They also appeared for a final performance in the school's auditorium on a Saturday evening.

'Cinderella, Cinderella' encouraged audience participation. Some of the students portrayed mice, who helped children onto the stage to participate in the show.

Traditions upheld

Red Cross Volunteers and StuCo members aid Doug Stover, sr., and other donors as they give blood

StuCo continued to sponsor traditional events while also starting some new traditions.

The first StuCo sponsored event was a skating party held at Skate East. Next, they organized the Friday morning donut socials, in order that students could get together with friends for donuts and juice before classes. For the second year, StuCo members went to Westview Manor Nursing Home every week to help residents play Bingo. They also hosted the Red Cross Bloodmobile for the sixth consecutive year.

Meanwhile, some new projects were begun which may become tradition. For example, for students, who wanted to become StuCo members but were not elected, members-at-large positions were formed. Candidates circulated petitions for 50 signatures, and then the StuCo members decided whether or not to vote them in.

Which one is it, reality or fantasy?

Most people associated War Games Club with the popular game of fantasy, Dungeons and Dragons. However, members also played strategical games. These games used representations of military units such as those in World War I and World War II.

Meeting every Tuesday and Thursday after school and on every activity day, the group exhibited great devotion. For the most part, members supplied their own game pieces. Also, within the club, a "Hitler" style hand salute began unofficially.

Interest sparked

French Club encouraged students to increase their knowledge of France. Meeting the second Tuesday of every month, members sampled French foods and solved word games. Furthermore, the club had two committees: the program committee and social committee. The program committee set up the games, puzzles, and quizzes. Also, members gave oral reports on subjects, such as cheeses and wines. Refreshments provided by the social committee were usually foods associated with the reports.

In order to finance club activities, members sold French candy and perfume. With the profits they purchased refreshments and equipment for the French Department. Also, they paid for one of the two French movies that they viewed. However, French Club no longer sponsored an orphan because of the school's new policy of limited fund raising events.

Hard work pays off for conference

Kayettes gathered from near and far to attend the Regional Kayettes Conference, sponsored by the Derby Kayettes. The members of Kayettes got ready for the conference by breaking up into committees in preparation for their guests from towns nearby. Mrs. Thelda Delamarter, sponsor, stated, "Many Kayettes worked very hard to make the conference a success." The various Kayette groups had sharing sessions to benefit the individual clubs. The conference consisted of electing the area president and also listening to a guest speaker.

Kayettes represent the Kansas Association of Youth. They are affiliated with the Kansas High School Activities Association. This club was a girls' service organization. Some of the activities in the club were the Hollyball, an Easter egg hunt for the Our Gang day care center, giving to world service organizations, and sponsoring Daisy Day in the spring.

There were nearly 100 members in Kayettes. Nancy Wells held the position of president. Other officers were Deana Morton (vice-president), Tanya Roberts (secretary) and Julie Francis (treasurer).

Squads receive sponsor change

A switch in sponsorship and changes in leadership of the cheerleading squads resulted in Mrs. Pam Lusk taking over the responsibilities of cheerleading sponsor in the middle of the year. Mrs. Lusk volunteered to take Mrs. Sondra Vedock's position when Mrs. Vedock became the Adult Education Coordinator. Mrs. Vedock felt she would not be able to give the squad the time they deserved. Mrs. Lusk was enthusiastic about her new position as sponsor commenting, "It gave me a chance to be around students besides just in the classroom and to be on a more personal basis."

The varsity squad decided not to have just one head cheerleader. They let the senior members rotate being the head cheerleader in order that everyone would have a chance to lead.

Proposed tryout date causes concern

During the summer, the Board of Education (BOE) brought up the subject concerning new students and the date of tryouts. They wanted to move the date up to the summer before school started, to give new students the chance to participate if they wished, instead of the usual spring tryout date. The BOE was also concerned with the work load the captains took on, whether they were responsible enough to handle the summer activities and whether or not the school district should pay the large costs to cut down on fund raisers. The parents of the spirit group members strongly disagreed, causing the motion to be studied by a committee which recommended the spring tryouts.

Starting a tradition, the Pantherettes performed in the Miss Derby Pageant for the second consecutive year. Ten members of the squad were involved in two routines, the opening number to the song, "Music in the Mirror," and a high kick routine to "It's a Miracle."

The squad also went to the Superstar Drill Team Camp at Baker University. There they won 15 individual ribbons, eight superior and seven excellent.

"Being a Pantherette is a big responsibility. There is a lot more than the glamour. We work hard during the summer and after school. We also work hard at perfecting performances, having a lot of fun in the process," commented team captain, Bobbi York, sr.

Squad's last year proves successful

During the summer, the squad attended camp at the University of Kansas in order to learn many new ideas for routines. The trip proved to be successful as they brought home three first place ribbons and a spirit award. The ribbons were in the categories of best entrance and exit, congeniality and spirit, and most improved. The spirit award was given out every night, and by winning it the majority of the time, the squad got to bring the award home.

The squad added pride to games with their routines. With everyday practice, they worked toward perfection. "We accomplished what we set out to do. We had problems but we got them worked out," added Alicia Mitchell, soph.

Though the Pantherbelles had only been active for two years, representing junior varsity and sophomore teams, it was their last year for performing. Reasons given by Mrs. Deborah Page, sponsor, for the termination of the squad was the expense of the uniforms and not having many games for performances. "I really don't think it's good," Alicia commented. "It's defeating the purpose of Pantherbelles."

Group promotes civic awareness

The local chapter of Senior Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) helped promote civic awareness of the free-enterprise system. Members of the club were students in the Marketing II class. Mr. Steve Einsel instructed the course and advised the club.

Meetings in the club consisted of making plans for future sales and activities. Members went to school in the mornings and held jobs in the areas around Derby and Wichita in the afternoons.

DECA participated in many activities, such as making a float to represent the club in the Homecoming Parade and sponsoring a Bowl-a-Thon to help fight Muscular Dystrophy (MD).

The "Pins for Pennies" Bowl-a-Thon took place at the Derby Bowl Center. Participants collected pledges to pay for each pin they knocked down. They collected more money for MD than any other club in the state.

Teens get taste of business world

Students got a taste of the business world by selling products, such as family portraits, Spirit Hands during the football season, carnations on Valentine's Day and buttons to the sophomore class.

Students in Junior DECA helped raise money for the sophomore class by manufacturing class spirit buttons for them to sell to friends and classmates. The buttons had a picture of a Panther and the class year on them.

Junior DECA consisted of sophomores and juniors who participated in the Marketing I course, instructed by Mr. Steve Einsel. "DECA gave me the chance to meet people who had the same interests as I did, and I learned more about the free-enterprise system," stated Sheryl Hammond, jr.

While whispering in a cheerleader's ear, the Panther mascot pats her on the back with a Spirit Hand during a football game. The Spirit Hands were sold by Junior DECA.

Club is kept busy by helping others

The Senior Office Education Association had monthly service projects which kept them busy throughout the year. For a Halloween treat, the club made Halloween cards for the residents at Westview Manor. Then, November brought smiles to the teachers as the club left goodies in the teachers' lounge. Christmas found them baking cookies and collecting old, stuffed animals for the Wichita Children's Home. The new year began with the typing of pledge cards for the American Heart Association. Continuing their efforts, in March they formed a team and bowled in the Jerry Lewis Pins for Pennies Bowl-a-Thon. Then, starting off the spring, the Children's Home was again involved as they made little, bean-bag bears for the orphans

On the other hand, conferences and awards also played a big part in the club's activities. Election of state officers was held at the Hutchinson Fall Conference in November. Seniors Mallory Wilkinson and Cathy Anderson became the secretary and historian of Kansas OEA, respectively.

Junior Office Education Association organized late in the year with seven members. Although they got a late start, they had time for one service project. On May Day the club members distributed handmade place mats, napkins and nut cups to the pediatric ward at St. Joseph's Medical Center.

Four members attended the State Leadership Conference in Emporia as hospitality hostesses. They were juniors Terri Brown, Lori Boone, Karen Dick, and Mona Klassen.

Competitors bring home many medals

Math Team consisted of outstanding mathematics students recommended for competition by their math teachers. As a whole, they racked up victory after victory bringing home top placing medals

In geometry, two teams tied for first at Manhattan and Topeka. The mathletes almost swept the field at Manhattan, Topeka Highland Park and Bethany College. Also, two other teams battled with each other for first and second place awards in the finals of the Kansas Newman College Bowl. The mathletes again won many honors at the Emporia Math Day, Wichita State University and the Pittsburg Math Relays, where they competed against 55 other schools.

Members work for math awards

Math Club consisted of 21 students who shared a common interest in mathematics. The organization met on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. The officers held a short business meeting at the beginning of each gathering before eating refreshments and taking part in a program. Various individual club members presented the programs throughout the year.

Club members received points for participating in math competitions, presenting programs and providing refreshments for the club. These accumulated points went toward math letters. The math letters were presented at the last meeting of the year which was a pizza party.

Group sponsors girl from India

To further the understanding of the German language, its culture, and its people was the main purpose of the German Club. By getting together with native Germans, the members were able to apply what they had learned in the classroom. Through talking with the natives, the students also learned more about the ways of German people which was a very important element in understanding the culture.

For the past ten years, the club's major project was the sponsoring of orphans in foreign countries. The club earned over $100 by selling German candy, Gummy Bears. The money went to a 14-year-old girl in India, who had been sponsored by the group for the past four years.

Artist wins gold medal

Two talented artists received awards at the Kansas Scholastic Art Show. Liane Schaffer, soph., won an Honorable Mention and Tim Hutton, sr., won both an Honorable Mention and the Blue Seal Gold Key Award. Tim Hutton's pottery was exhibited at the Wichita City Library before being sent to the National Scholastic Competition in New York, where it won one of 20 National Gold Medals

Many students also won awards at the art competition in Independence, Ks. Lynn Kefeler, jr., first in fiber crafts; Terri Greenlee, soph., fifth in sculpture; and juniors Steve Pierce and Janet Rafferty won fourth and fifth places respectively in painting

Homecoming festivities uplifted students as the week of Oct. 20-24 progressed. Various outfits flooded the halls as Student Council sponsored Spirit Week. The juniors tied the seniors 14-14 in a heated Powder Puff football game. Girls donned jerseys while the males, clad in cheerleading outfits, rooted for their sides. Powder Puff king, Talbert Showalter, sr., was crowned during halftime.

Three marching bands, the queen candidates, the faculty spirit bus and a panther riding a Brama bull were viewed on the parade route Friday afternoon. The sophomore float ruled over the class floats. Seniors took second place, and third place went to the juniors. Using teamwork, the sophomores also stole the hall decorating contest.

Cheered to victory, Derby smashed Wellington 41-0. The announcement of the queen highlighted halftime. Wendy Milanese was crowned by Diane Cary, the 1979 Homecoming Queen. Wendy presided over the senior court of Deanna Heller, Brenda Hopper, Tracy Pyles and Jodi Wayman.

On Saturday night, a dance was sponsored by Student Council. A photographer pictured couples, and a D.J. provided the music. The event took place in the Commons.

Elected by the students, Wendy Milanese, sr., reigned as Homecoming Queen. She had participated throughout the school being a varsity cheerleader, vice-president of National Honor Society, FCA member and a member of the Math Club.

Wendy worked at Bressler's 31-Flavors in her senior year. Being a cheerleader, she especially enjoyed decorating lockers and adding spirit to the school.

Strict criteria aids selection of king

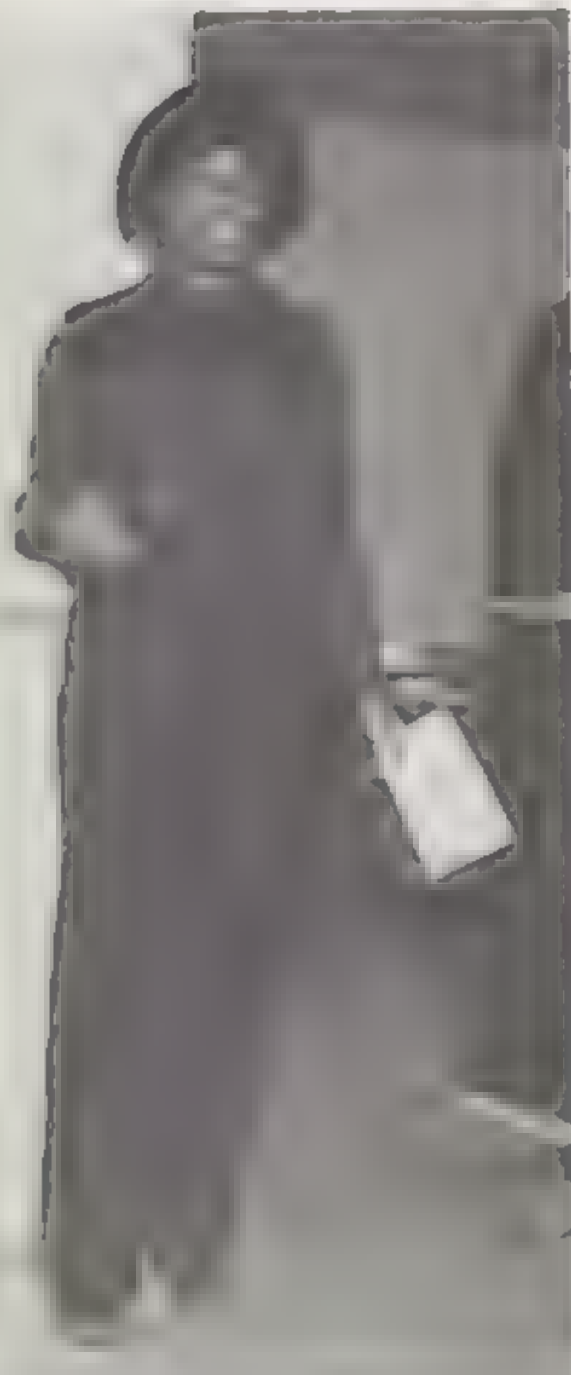

"It was great!" remarked Dana Woodard, jr., about the annual Hollyball. The theme of the dance was "Moonlight and Mistletoe." Dance Unlimited, which was operated by Ron Hess, sr., and Lane Meyers, graduate, provided the entertainment for the Christmas party. "The Kayettes have held the event for more than ten years," stated Mrs. Thelda Delamarter, who sponsored the club and dance from the first year it began.

Out of the five candidates chosen to be the Hollyball King, Ronnie Greathouse, sr., won the honor. The candidates were selected under a strict criteria which included having a GPA of 2.5 or higher, being a senior, having a good attendance record, being a good representative of the school, and also having no behavior or disciplinary problems.

Ronnie Greathouse, sr., was very active during his high school years with playing on the football team for two years and the basketball team for three. He received many awards due to his athletic ability in football and basketball. Ronnie was the only football player in the league to be selected to ALL Ark Valley League in both offense and in defense. In addition, he was selected to play on the West squad during the Shrine Bowl in June.

Participants add to winter festivities

A parade through the gym and a contest of short skits during the Friday afternoon pep assembly made the Winter Sports crowning more exciting. Basketball players' lockers were decorated with streamers and balloons.

Although the Panthers strived for a victory, the Winfield Vikings left with the win. Half time action included a Pantherette performance, along with crowning of Denny Smith, Winter Sports Homecoming Queen. Sally Morrow, 1979 queen, crowned the royal senior. The girls' fathers escorted them to the gym floor, where they were met by a senior escort. Nominees were required to have a 2.5 grade point average, and they had to be a senior. Student Council sponsored the events.

On Saturday night, February 7, a dance was held in the Commons. Students and faculty danced to the sounds of Party Productions from 8:00 to 11:30.

Finding pleasure in art, drama and music, Denny Smith, sr., participated in Philharmonic Choir, drama productions and art classes. She painted some miniature sports murals on the walls during her Production and Independent Art classes. Also, she performed in school plays and helped with production crews.

As an office assistant, Denny aided the secretaries one hour each day. A few nights a week she worked as a cashier at Hardee's in Derby.

Morrow reigns, receives crown

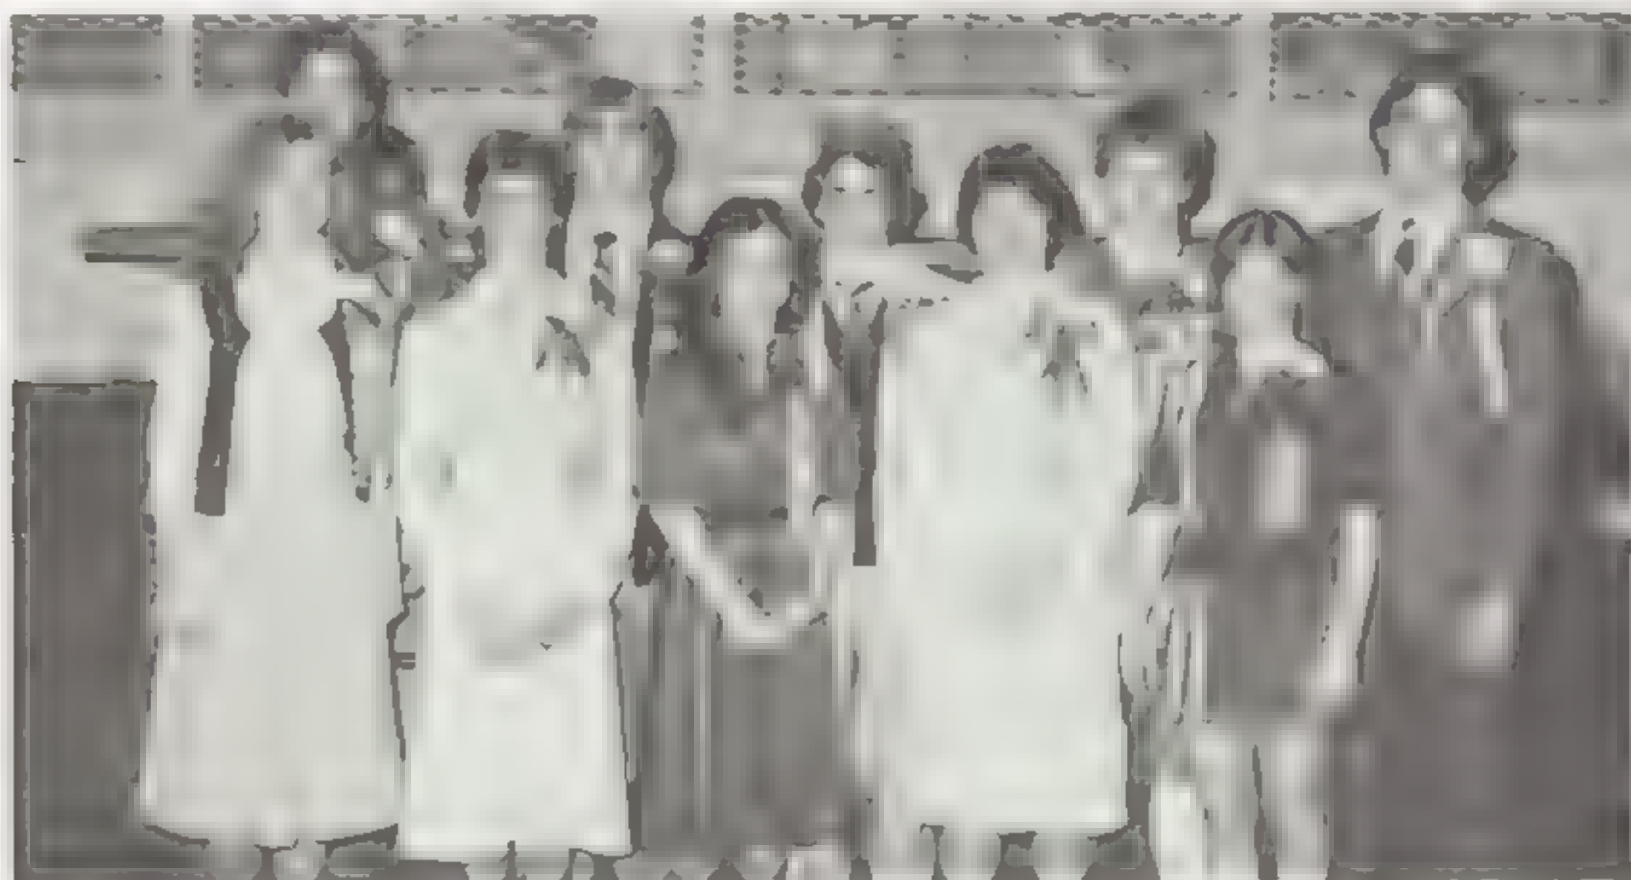

Escorted by Wendy Milanese, sr., to the middle of the gym floor, Mike Morrow, sr., was named Mr. Panther, on Tuesday, February 17. Before full stands, the panther mascot crowned Mike during the half time of the Derby vs. Campus game.

The varsity cheerleaders nominated and introduced nine candidates at a pep assembly a week before the coronation. The seniors passed the requirements of a 2.5 grade average and having made outstanding contributions to the school. Students voted for their choices, and the court was elected.

Honoring the newly-named Mr. Panther, the Pantherettes performed a routine to the music of "A 5th of Beethoven" by the Walter Murphy Band. "I have really enjoyed my high school years at Derby and will miss it next year," responded Mike after the announcement of his election. Leading in score the entire game, Derby downed the Colts, 68-65

Serene elegance brings crowd

"The atmosphere was very soft and solemn," commented Kim Perry, sr., "no rowdiness, but plenty of memories." A close, friendly crowd participated in the evening's activities.

Upon entering the door, each girl received a red, silk rose (class flower and color) as a souvenir. A water fountain in the middle of the dance floor added elegance to the peaceful and serene atmosphere. Punch was served from a flowing champagne fountain into plastic wine glasses. Brick red napkins engraved with the senior, "Free Bird," and the date of the Prom enhanced the refreshment table. Individual tables were decorated with puffs of cotton clouds from which flowed a parchment scroll with the words of the senior class motto written in Old English script. Also, a tiny white dove sat at the edge of the cloud. Guests souvenir pictures were taken by Mr. Roy Meyer of Meyer and Williams Photography Studio.

Headstone entertained the crowd with music. Their sounds seemed to please the guests. "The band was exciting and easy to dance to. I had a good time!" stated Debbie Eskew, jr.

Radio station T-95 held a contest which was won by Gretchen Gerringer, sr., the prize included limosine service, her prom dress from Wedding Specialists, tuxedo rental, all flowers and dinner for the evening.

Competition, The Vigor Of Life

Whether a determined athlete or a screaming fan, sports had an impact on everyone's life.

Game days stood apart as a stream of green engulfed the halls. Decorated lockers, posters and a multitude of uses for the school's colors served as reminders of the match or game that evening. The beat of drums called students to the pep assemblies. Then, as the Jazz Band played, a competitive spirit burned with the three classes chanting back and forth and the cheerleaders performing their routines.

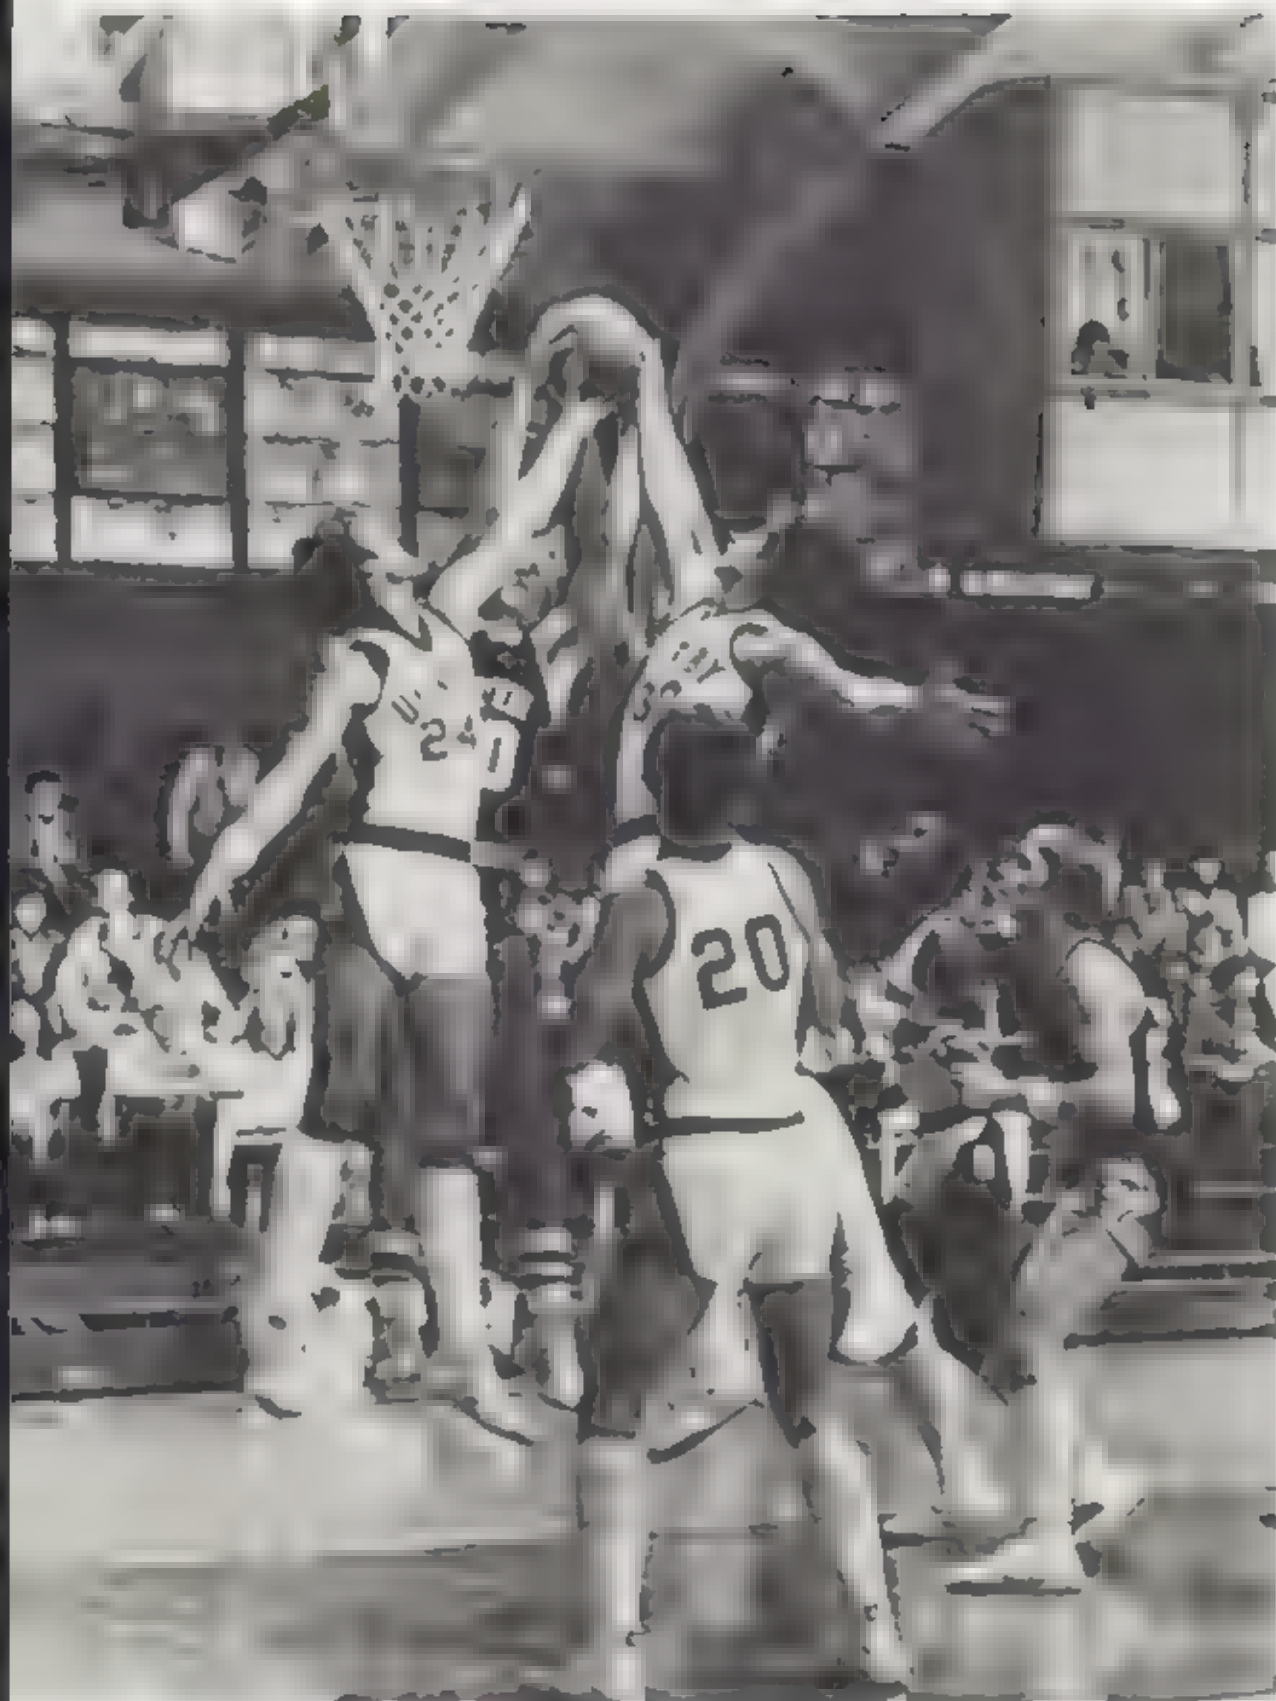

Bleachers in the stadium and gym held past, present and future students and other spectators. The closer the score, the more intense the players and fans became. During the game, athletes could hear the roar of clapping and the hush of anticipation as the eyes of the crowd followed their every move. As the game grew to its climactic height, a vital spark was lit in the hearts of everyone there. That spark was an expression of school pride. Thus, the victories and losses were shared by the competitors and the fans.

Distance runners show improvement

sr. shows concentration*

In the long run, hard work and dedication make a good cross country team, and the squad had a great deal of both. With a new coach, Mr. Del Heidebrecht, they achieved numerous individual victories. Coach Heidebrecht said, "Basically all runners improved, and eight runners bettered their times. They kept a positive attitude through both the practices and the meets. They tried to improve all the time."

Through running six to ten miles during each practice, seven runners did well enough to receive medals. Chris Young, fresh., earned five medals; Karen Dahlman, soph., four; Mark Weierich, soph., one; Karen Backues, jr., seven; Andrea Gregorios, jr., five; Kurt Johnson, jr., one, and Richard Williams, jr., two.

Coach Heidebrecht described the team by saying, "It was a young squad, and they gained a lot of experience."

Gymnasts succeed in State Meet

Flying through the air, Jodi Wayman, sr., executes her floor routine

Excellent finishing in the state competition rounded off the year for the gymnastics team. They hosted the meet and achieved their goals by totaling 101.3 points and receiving a second place trophy.

Describing the team as the best so far, Coach Marty Hunt said, "We had more potential and more depth than previous years." The girls worked very hard to accomplish their victories. They practiced after school every day until 6:30 or 7:00 p.m.

Giving a great deal of credit to the junior varsity as well as the varsity, Coach Hunt said, "The junior varsity was outstanding. They beat some varsity teams and scored as well as the varsity did five years ago." Although there were injuries, they did not hamper the team. Coach Hunt said, "The success we achieved was due to a lot of people willing to work hard and a lot of determination."

Winning record proves fellowship

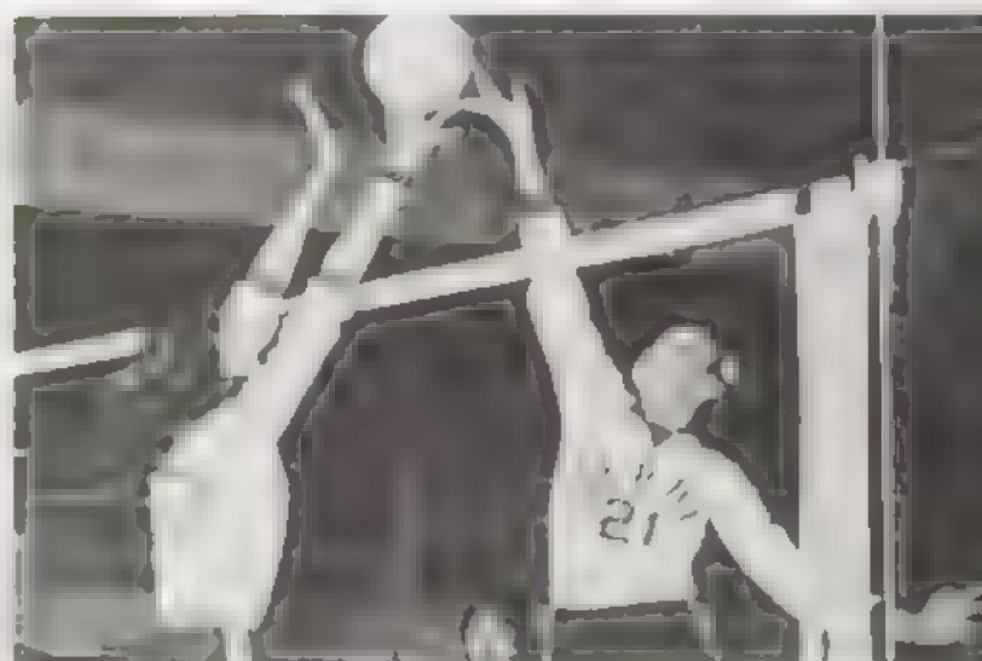

The squad members showed their efficiency with a win-loss record of 23-8 and second place in the AVL Tournament. Finishing the eighth year, the team had grown both spiritually and in confidence. "I think it was one of their strong points. We had a lot of depth. It was great; it really was," Coach Alana Pharis stated. "There were good feelings among the team members. They liked each other." By competing with both good and bad teams, each player played to her fullest.

Special help also came to the team. Assistance came from WSU volleyball player, Leslie Gourley, who came to practices and gave important tips and information on improvement. Working as a unit, the spikers and setters played a good game. Improvement was important to the players. Coach Pharis said, "If you don't improve in every area, you're in trouble." Team understanding and coaching guidance made the squad want to work and show their upmost ability.

Athletes, coaches work well together

This was the best team in the past four years. There was more talent to work with, and the talent blended well," stated Coach Tom McVay, head football coach. Coach McVay also gave the team credit for being the hardest working group of boys he had ever had and for having good working attitudes.

In the beginning of the season, Coach McVay's expectations for the team consisted of taking the Ark Valley League Championship and making the state playoffs. Both goals were missed, which disappointed him as well as the other coaches and players.

The trainees responded well to the coaches, also. All of the coaches put hard hours into the team, and they gave the athletes tougher workouts than ever before.

Every goal set by coach reached

"These boys were winners and will be in the future," stated Coach Boyd Ayer. The Junior Varsity team ended their season with a 4-1 win-loss record.

Three goals, which had been set by the coaches, were reached. They consisted of gaining experience for upcoming years, letting as many people as possible play and developing a good winning attitude. The players experienced the game situation as much as possible. Mainly juniors played with certain positions filled by sophomores, and all of the boys did get a chance to play.

Coach Ayer added that three other coaches worked with the Junior Varsity team. They were Coach Bill Kelley, who worked on defense, Coach Don Fisher, who worked on offense, and Coach Jim Noel, who worked on the offensive-defensive line.

Young Panthers reign undefeated

The boys found that it took all of the players to win because of the lack of participants, according to Coach Bill Kelley. Also, they learned that not just one person could win the game and it took effort on everyone's part. Since depth was their weakest point, the players made up for it by "playing with pain" when hurt. Also, the dedication in the players made up for the squad of only 27 athletes.

Coach Kelley said, "They did great! From the beginning, they came a long way!"

AVL recognizes accomplishments

The Junior Varsity Team made its mark in the Ark Valley League (AVL) by placing first with a win-loss record of 15-1. Also, Varsity player, Sherri Klassen, sr., was named to First Team in the AVL.

"The main accomplishments of the Varsity Team were that they were extremely competitive and played well. Seventeen out of 20 games were very close," remarked Coach Paul Evans. Another varsity accomplishment included a third place rating in the Mulvane Tournament.

Unbeknown to most students and faculty members, the Junior Varsity Team achieved a first place position in AVL for the first time ever. According to Coach Lynn Bunnell, "Sophomore Jackie Welch's top scoring record and the outstanding rebounding skills of Janice Roberts, soph., helped the team reach its goal."

Summarizing the year, Coach Evans said, "No problems! They were a team that worked well all year long."

The Varsity team had a tougher season with fewer victories than in past years. Most all of the games played were tough-fought, close games. The team finished with a 10-10 record, which was a disappointment for Coach Del Heidebrecht. However, he looked forward optimistically to next year's season. Coach Heidebrecht commented, "We progressed during the season and had a successful ending. With the experience that was gained, I'm looking for a winning season next year."

On the other hand, the Junior Varsity team had an excellent season, finishing 15-1. They lost only to Hutchinson after beating them the first game of the season. Coach George Embers was in charge of the JV team for the second consecutive year.

Grapplers exceed expectations

Practice and sacrifices began long before the season started. In December, each member had to declare the weight class he wanted to compete in. In some cases, this meant a strict diet. The team worked out two and one half hours, six days a week.

"We had an exceptional year. Through hard work we did better than expected," related Coach Mickey Johnson. Five out of eight members who qualified for Sub-State continued on to the State Tournament. Eddie Harrington, jr., captured the No. 1 position in the 119 pound weight class. Second place individual winners at State included Curtis Carter, jr., 145 pounds, and Mike Morrow, sr., 126 pounds. Tony Kleman, sr., 128 pounds, finished third. Overall, the team placed fourth.

Individual grapplers also won honors in the Ark Valley League. Seniors Kevin Kayes and Morrow received First Team standings. Kleman achieved Second Team, and Carter and Harrington won Honorable Mention.

Matmen achieve undefeated year

The Junior Varsity grapplers, coached by Mr. Jim Noel, completed the season with a 9-0 win-loss record, including the Ark Valley League Championship. According to Varsity Coach Mickey Johnson, the talented members on the JV squad also assisted the varsity by providing competition for varsity positions.

To match their unblemished record, many individuals displayed their skill by placing in the top at the JV AVL Tournament. Dale Garret, jr., heavyweight, Ken Mead, jr., 167 pounds, Pat McKee, jr., 126 pounds, and Bob Thomas, jr., 145 pounds, seized first place positions. Second place finishers included Tim Dube, jr., 112 pounds, Tim Middlebrooks, jr., 132 pounds, and Shawn Tribioli, soph., 138 pounds. Jeff Hoggatt, soph., 119 pounds, and David Welch, jr., 155 pounds, took third while John Eakins, fresh., 185 pounds, and Kurt Johnson, jr., 138 pounds, received fourth.

Combining teams adds pressures

The track program changed greatly as the girls' and boys' teams incorporated under one organization. Coaches Don Fisher, Jim Riedel, John Fasano, Larry Bernstorf and Eddie Sears handled the program as the new coaching staff. The staff's expectations added pressures and responsibilities to the small group of 20 members.

The lack of participants hindered the progress of the team. However, individuals placed high in the different meets. Juniors led the team with Val Thompson in the jumping events, Julie Pierson in the hurdles and Karen Backues in the distance races. The leadership of seniors Kaylee Baumfalk, Denise Hebert and Debbie Thomas contributed another big factor in the success of the team. The statewide meet was held May 23, and sophomore Sheri Neff competed in the long jump event. Coach Don Fisher commented, "The girls have performed to their maximum in all the meets, and through these efforts they have been rewarded by placing remarkably well in most of their meets."

Three compete in State meet

The boys' track team had a successful season with three team members placing in the State Track Meet in Wichita. Those individuals were Timmy Lyons, sr., third in Shot Put, Randy Stuhlsatz, sr., sixth in High Hurdles, and Kenny Miller, sr., fifth in High Hurdles and second in Intermediate Hurdles. Eddie Hunter and the 400 M Relay Team, which consisted of Pat Hill, sr., Randy Stuhlsatz, sr., Dave Monson, sr., and Kenny Miller, sr., also qualified for the State Meet but did not place.

Among the previously mentioned accomplishments, the track team also broke several individual records. The individuals who achieved the honors were Timmy Lyons, sr., in the Shot Put with a throw of 57'4". Eddie Hunter, jr., in the discus with a throw of 163'11" and the 400 M Relay Team by running a 43.58.

New faces appear at state meet

New faces appeared in the 14 member girls tennis team with only four players returning from last season. However, because of practicing two hours daily after school and individual practice on the weekends, the girls came away with a first place victory at Wichita South. In addition, medals were won at Wellington, El Dorado and Circle.

The doubles duo of Melanie Anderson, sr., and Polly Pierson, fresh., placed third during regionals competition and qualified for state competition. However, they lost to fourth-placed Dodge City during the first round at the state tournament.

Enthusiasm urges players to improve

Nine new people joined the returning six to form the Boys' Varsity and Junior Varsity tennis teams. Two freshmen, who had a successful season, composed the Junior Varsity doubles team. The varsity players had scattered wins over a field of tough opponents. Mark Thorndike consistently performed as the outstanding senior on the Varsity team.

"The team is again an improvement over the prior year; however, we are not yet at the top in the Ark Valley. With continued summer exposure to tennis and general enthusiasm in Derby for tennis, this gradual improvement should continue," commented Coach Mike Witherspoon. He added, "We are grateful for the support tennis is receiving in this school."

Talent generates undefeated year

Deep-seated talent and teamwork built an undefeated season for the second-year soccer team. With a constant barrage of fresh players from the bench, they simply wore down the opposing team. Though the team was plagued with pre-season injuries and illness, their talent still showed through.

As a result of their talent, only three goals were scored against Derby. The first goal was not scored until the sixth game, which was played against South.

Unfortunately, the only recognition the team earned became the pride in their record. Because high school soccer stayed as an infant sport in Kansas, the Kansas High School Athletic Association did not recognize it. Therefore, no championships occurred. Meanwhile, the Panthers dreamed in "might have beens." The squad might have been the state champs.

Season improves as it progresses

The girls' softball team began the season slowly and improved steadily. As the girls began to work together as a team, ball handling became increasingly better.

Though the season was inconsistent with exceptional playing during some games and average playing during others, the determination to be best prevailed. Coach Alana Pharis stated, "We started out slow, but we got better as the year progressed."

Successful JV's win third place

The Varsity baseball team lacked perfection; thus, they finished the season with a 9-12 record. Coach Rod Spatz commented, "Our material was a lot better than what showed up in the resulting scores."

On the other hand, the Junior Varsity had a very good season as they ended with a 16-1 record. Undefeated until the El Dorado Tournament, they were tough competition before losing by one point to Campus. As a result, they placed third.

Twelve players made up the golf team. Six boys played on varsity, and six played on junior varsity. According to Coach Tom McVay, the three most experienced golfers, who placed in each meet, were Kurt Mode, jr., Todd Bonewell, soph., and Russ Mamoth, soph.

Coach McVay stated that sophomore Russ Mamoth was the "number one medalist in the Ark Valley League." Also, according to Coach McVay, Mamoth was the best individual golfer he had had in eight years.

The golf team attempted to reach two goals and succeeded. The first was to place in one of the top three places in the AVL. They won third place. Earning a "berth" in the state tournament became their second goal. Their tournament participation resulted in the earning of twelfth place.

LIFE

STUDENT BODY

Friends, The Heart Of Life

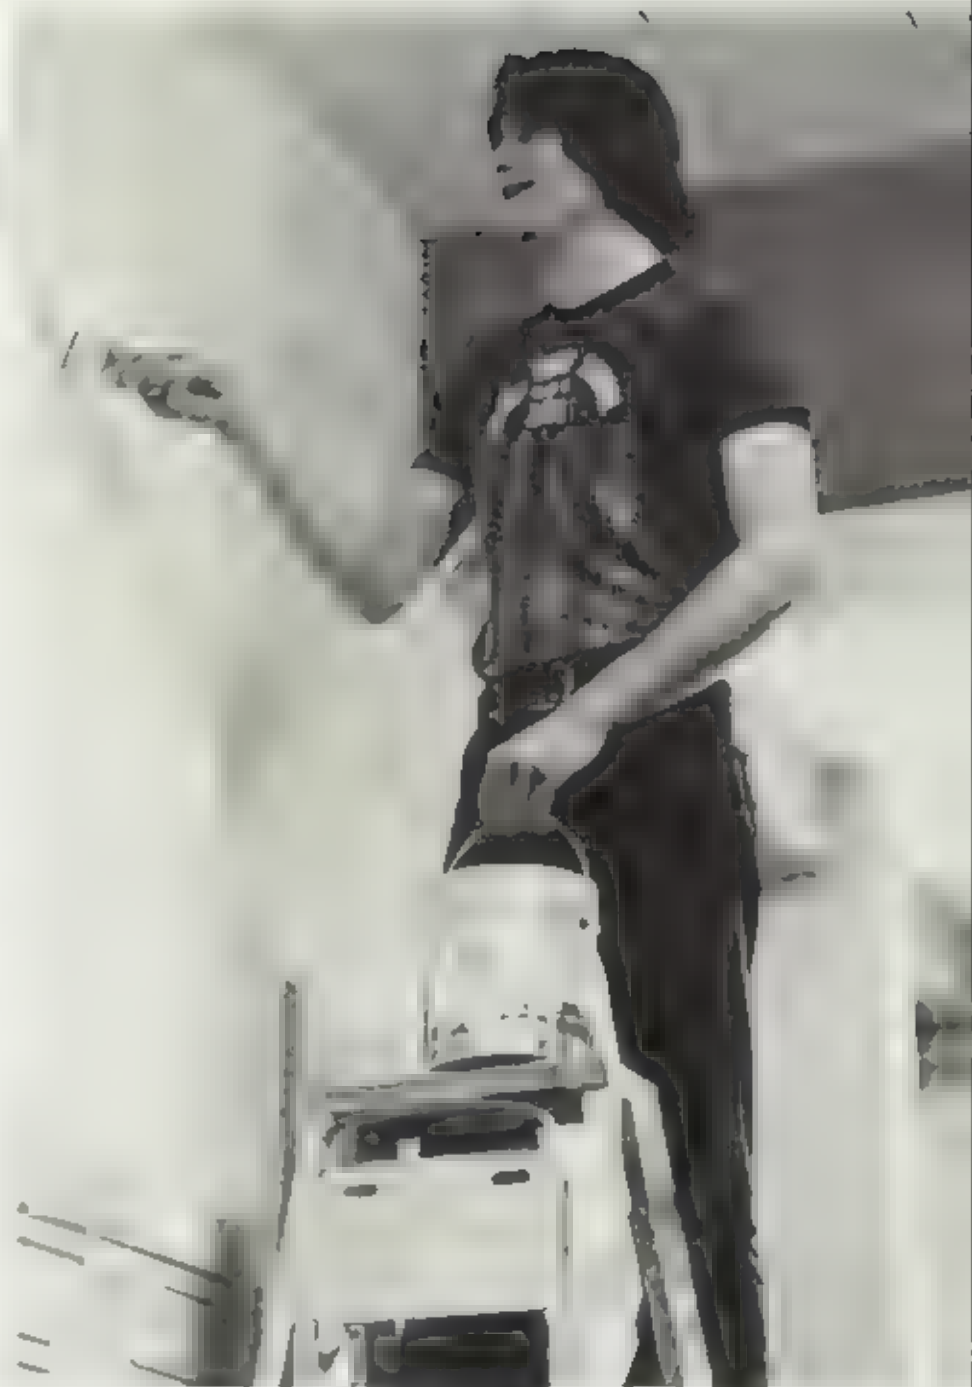

Filled with friendship and trust, students relied upon and helped each other through three very difficult years of their lives.

Almost everyone found that one certain friend who would be there standing by when times got bad. A friend who could be trusted became as valuable as life itself.

Friendships created memories to be brought back in the future. Many would remember time and time again the little things. When somebody smiled, secrets shared, inside jokes, muffled laughs, heartbreaks, telephone calls and nicknames were just a few.

As life continued, friends drifted and names changed. Though changes occurred, unforgettable friends and the time spent with them endured in the hearts of all.

Dawn Krenzer and Liss Hock, srs., have a "goat-ropin" good time during the Western Dance which was sponsored by Student Council.

Western craze corrals followers in nation and Derby Senior High

Stompin' cowboy boots and hats decorated with pins and feathers meant that the Western craze had made a mark on Derby. Vests over plaid shirts and Western-cut jeans also provided the "country" look.

The "Two-Step" and "Cotton-Eyed Joe," country swing dancing, replaced up-beat disco. As a result, many people began to discover and enjoy progressive Country and Western music. Vocal artists, who had been around for many years, such as Willie Nelson, Waylon Jennings, Kenny Rogers, Charlie Daniels, and Dolly Parton became more popular than ever. Also, the Country-Western tastes brought about a country dance at Derby Senior High which was held in November featuring a live band, Ted Scott and his Western Drifters.

The movies, such as "Honeysuckle Rose," "Bronco Billy" and "Urban Cowboy," also reflected the Country and Western lifestyle. Songs from these movies could be heard on both rock and country radio stations. In addition, television programs also reflected the Western trend with such shows as "Concrete Cowboys" and "Dallas" being aired.

At St. Mary's voting center, Mr. Jim Nuss explains voting techniques to his class.

Future voters actively participate in the 1980 presidential election

Three hundred and thirty-four students took part in an election survey prepared by Mrs. Ruby Brumfield's Television I class. The students agreed with the public by casting 145 votes for Ronald Reagan over 105 votes for Jimmy Carter. Another question on the survey was in regard to who won the televised presidential debate. One hundred and seventy-two people thought Ronald Reagan won, while 100 thought Jimmy Carter won, and one thought John Anderson won.

Other classes also got involved in the elections. For example, Mrs. Thelda Delamarter's Concepts and Values class held their own debate. The side for Reagan, led by Mike O'Shea, sr., won over the team for Carter which was headed by Laura Brown, sr. Along with Concepts and Values, both Mr. Jim Nuss's and Mr. Mike Witherspoon's American Government classes became involved. The classes walked to St. Mary's School, which was a voting center, on November 4 in order to both learn and observe the nation's method of voting.

Age of electronics affects students

"Help! My calculator battery is dead, and I've got a big chemistry test!" Do you recall hearing this plea of desperation? As students saw the world become more sophisticated, they relied more and more on the electronics surrounding them.

The calculator had a permanent place in many girls' purses. Calculators were designed paper-thin and could be bought for as little as $10. In addition, digital watches took on the abilities of a stop watch, alarm clock, and calculator. Some could even pace a person's jogging. They ranged from $30 to $200.

Those wanting stereo perfection found it a great time to purchase high-powered components. Investments were made in receivers and amplifiers which gave from 30 to 300 watts of sound. In order to achieve the goal of concert realism, music lovers bought stereo systems with cassette and eight-track players, clock radios and a variety of knobs and switches. The cost of the systems averaged from $150 on up.

Attired in the feminine fashion of plaid skirts, soft-textured, loose blouses and blazer, Faith Poulos, sr talks with Cindy Barnes, sr

New decade brings on new fashions

Styles changed as the times changed. Clothes turned from the "Disco" look to the "Western" look. As a result, designer jeans skyrocketed in their popularity and also in their prices. However, high prices did not stop many from buying them. Girls and boys alike were attired in their Pierre Cardin, Calvin Klein and Levi jeans.

As the dress apparel for girls went to a fancier look, lace became very popular for almost every type of clothing. In addition, removable collars became a big hit in formal and casual wear.

In the meantime, boys' styles remained, in the most part, very casual. The new look for shirts and sweaters was velour in deep, rich colors.

For footwear girls and boys wore their Nikes and Adidas, as in times past. However, for girls dress changed to spiked heel sandals and pumps.

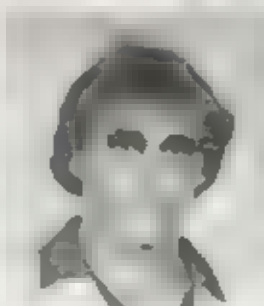

Hairstyles varied from the "10" braided look to the curlier haircuts. As a result, permanents took on a new popularity with both girls and boys.

Indo-Chinese challenge new culture

Indo Chinese students attending classes came from many nations, such as Laos, Thailand, China and Vietnam. The majority came to the United States speaking little or no English. Therefore, language became one of their greatest barriers.

Taught by Mrs. Carol Bacon, English as a Second Language (ESL) aided the Indo-Chinese students and one Costa Rican girl. Mrs. Bacon's curriculum ranged from the alphabet and the composition of simple sentences to "survival" English because of the students' different aptitude levels. Survival English consisted of learning basic communication.

The new students faced "culture shocks" other than language. Most of the Indo-Chinese students belonged to the Buddhist religion and were unfamiliar with the American holidays. Although, they maintained their individual customs and traditions, the Indo-Chinese students adapted quite well to the American lifestyle.

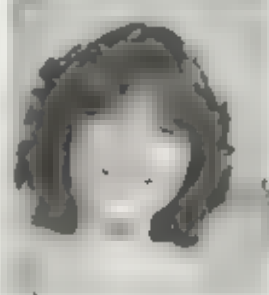

Trying to overcome the language barrier, Toi Ditcharoen, soph, participates in the English as a Second Language class

Honor Society holds College Bowl

National Honor Society sponsored the Derby Invitational College Bowl on Feb. 26 in the auditorium. Sixteen teams from eight surrounding high schools attended the bowl which began at 8:30 a.m. and ended at 3:30 p.m. It consisted of 31 rounds with each running approximately six to eight minutes. Each round was comprised of two questions in the math, social studies, science and fine arts categories, and one each in the current events and foreign languages categories.

Faculty members volunteered to judge the College Bowl, and every member of National Honor Society played a role in the event.

NHS president, Kim Perry, sr., remarked, "This being the first College Bowl sponsored by Derby, I feel it went smoothly. The Honor Society plans on having a College Bowl each year and making it a tradition."

Responsible for projecting images on the screen and playing musical selections, Malcolm Oliver, sr., waits by the audio-visual equipment for the next question

As judges for the College Bowl, Mr. John Kennedy, Mr. Jim Hartshorn, and Mr. Ron Mahoney listen attentively to the answers given by competing teams

Selecting from the variety of vegetables in the salad bar, Ken Rohling, soph., prepares a crispy meal

Lifestyles altered by physical fitness

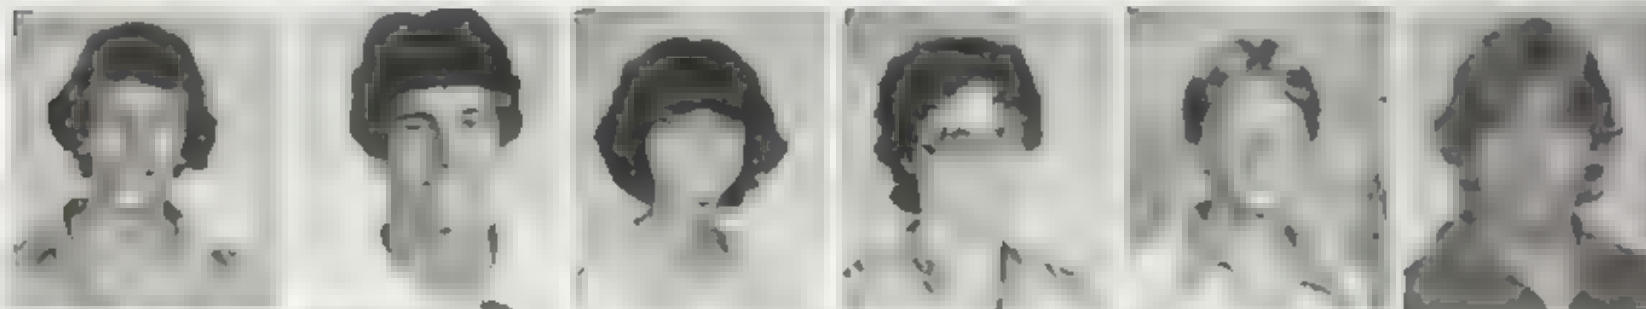

Physical fitness became an everyday part of many lives. A common occurrence was a morning jog around town and then a jaunt to work or school. However, students were not the only ones who were concerned with their health. Parents, grandparents, teachers and pets also got involved. Thus, it was not odd to spot a lone bicycle rider or runner accompanied by his jogging dog.

Meanwhile, the mighty battle for a more pleasing physical appearance resulted in dieting. While some students ate hearty breakfasts, others settled for an apple or a piece of bacon. Then, lunchtime neared, and the salad bar was wheeled to the cafeteria dining area. Students and teachers heaped bowls full of crisp lettuce, red tomatoes, cool cucumbers, etc. Although this concoction appeared to be dietetic, some consumed considerable calories in the form of dressing and dessert.

In the evenings, again the joggers could be seen completing the daily ritual of physical fitness as they paced their way home.

During his air shift at KGCS radio station, Craig Stout, jr., breaks between songs to give the weather conditions

Country captivates; radio still 'rocks'

At the beginning of the 80's, radio remained as popular, or more so, than it had ever been. The music changed with the times, but faithful listeners still existed.

Music heard on students' car radios indicated more of a preference for country music than in the past. However, rock music continued to be part of most students' radio enjoyment. Many teenagers tuned in T-95, an all-rock FM radio station. Meanwhile, AM stations KLEO and KEYN not only changed their call letters to KWKN and KQAM, respectively, but also changed their formats. KWKN became the young adult music station while KQAM played only the "oldies."

Challenged by radio as a career opportunity, Ron Ness, sr., and Craig Stout, jr., held part-time jobs at the local country music station, KGCS.

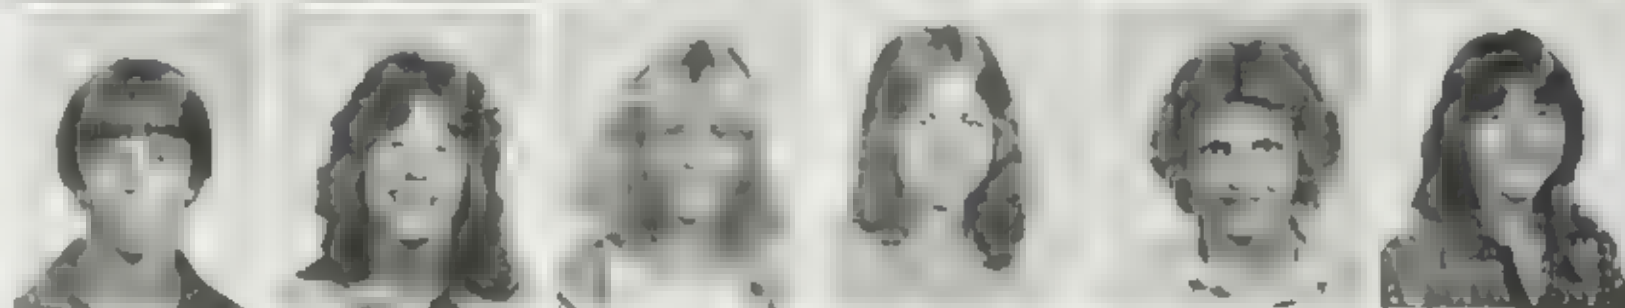

A school radio station materialized with the initial broadcast of station KDSH during first semester. The broadcasts and scripts reflected class learning and efforts.

Reaching into a Student Union vending machine, Dana Woodard, jr., prepares to have chips for lunch.

New law affects junk food 'junkies'

The U.S. Department of Agriculture banned selling junk foods from the beginning of the school day until after the last lunch period.

After July 1, 1980, the foods which could not be sold were carbonated drinks, popsicles, chewing gum and hard candies. However, the ban did not include candy bars consisting of milk chocolate and nuts, chips and fruit juices. Banned foods of minimal nutritional value were those foods which provided less than five per cent of the eight specified nutrients per 100 calories and per serving. "Basically, it is to eliminate mostly the younger children from eating so much food that does not provide proper nutrition," Prin. Kendall Pyle commented.

As a result of the law, Student Council had to reduce their number of vending machines causing a slight decrease in monthly profits. "The candy law has not affected us as much as theft. Otherwise, our income is probably $50 less a month," said Mrs. Bobbie Evans, Student Council sponsor.

ring the victory bell

Freedom reigns as hostages return

Derby students rejoiced on January 20 along with the nation when 52 American hostages were freed from Iranian captivity. The Americans came home after Pres. Carter agreed to unfreeze $7 billion of Iranian assets in return for their freedom.

The school participated in the event in many ways. Jubilant DSHer's rang the victory bell when they heard that the 14 1/2 month ordeal was over. Approximately 400 students gathered for the bell ringing between fifth and sixth hours. Also, on that historical day, students in many classrooms watched the presidential inauguration of Ronald Reagan which occurred 30 minutes prior to the hostages' release.

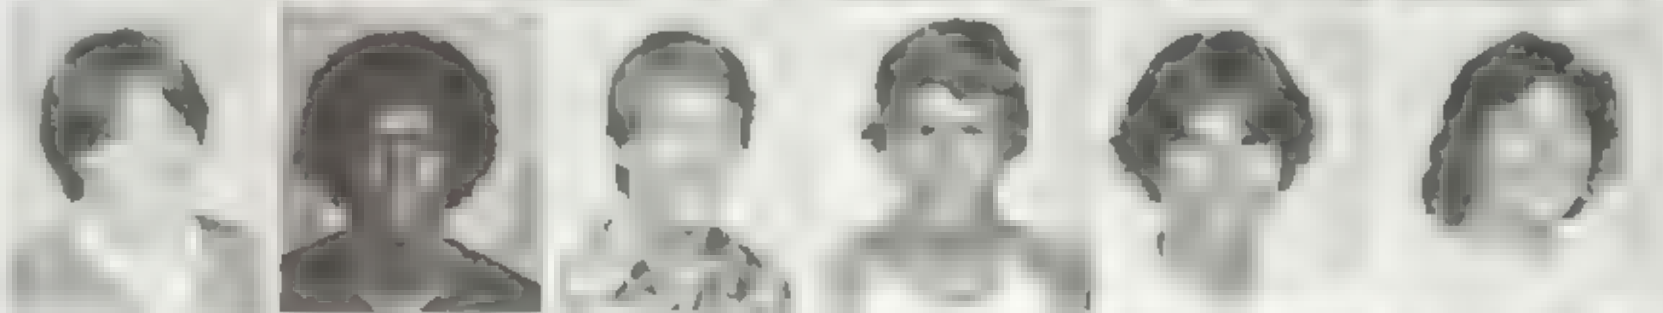

During the 444 day vigil as America's hopes were raised and dashed again and again, Derby students found various ways of keeping the prisoners from being forgotten. For example, on the November 4 election day, AFJROTC and the band held a flag raising ceremony on the football field. The ceremony commemorated one year of captivity of the hostages and celebrated America's greatest freedom, the freedom to vote. Also, some students used the hostage issue for class assignments.

Questioning the fit and look of the ski jacket, Kim Eberhardt, sr., checks the store mirror carefully.

Skiing experience proves exhilarating

Along with Christmas vacation, snow skiing trips ranked among the most anticipated winter activities. Students frequented the Colorado area the most because of the easy accessibility and popular resorts such as Aspen, Vail and Breckenridge.

Group trips lessened the high cost of skiing. Dana Johnson, sr., and Linda Dollahan, jr., organized one such trip. Anyone interested signed up for the Education Overland trip to Vail. The trip cost $159, which included transportation, hotel accommodations, ski equipment, a pizza party and ski accident coverage.

The fascination with this sport was conveyed by the skiing experiences of Andrea Haring, jr., who said, "I was scared to death when I looked down the mountain, yet I sensed control which I had not expected."

Top six honored at commencement

The graduation ceremony of 391 seniors exhibited the mixed emotions of many graduates. The faces of the seniors expressed the emotions of pride in their achievements, sorrow of leaving friends behind, and hope for the future.

There were several noticeable differences that distinguished the 1981 graduation. The commencement ceremonies were held at Century II in Wichita due to the unpredictability of the weather. However, the most unusual variance became the assemblage of five valedictorians and one salutatorian.

Class Song: "Free Bird"

Leaving no doubt as to where she is sitting, Bobbi York's mortarboard reveals her individuality

Holding the class flower, the red rose, Mallory Wilkinson smiles wistfully at the conclusion of the ceremonies

This is YOUR Life

With the long winter months behind them, students caught spring fever early in April. The well-earned spring break and the REO Speedwagon concert on April 24 set the beat for the last months of school. In early May, Derby Days also found people involved in various outdoor activities around town.

Half empty classrooms, cars speeding in the parking lots and the smell of suntan lotion informed everyone that summer was approaching fast. As the days were counted down, restlessness and rowdiness prevailed in the air. Practical jokes, six percent grade cuts and vandalism resulted.

Seniors lived life to its fullest during their last week, also called Senior Week. The seniors' few remaining days became obvious as beer cans and toilet paper were hung in the trees. On May 20 the graduates posted "81 is Done" signs, rang the victory bell and dressed in togas.

Camera At Work

So, this was your life. With all of its ups and downs, the year meant something different to each one of us. Yet, everyone experienced basic similarities, such as working, going to school, or just hanging out.

In the spring, students saw changes being made for the next fall's transition from a three-year to a four-year high school. However, whether you loved it or hated it, 1981 was unique because it was the last year for Derby Senior High as a three-year school.

In loving memory of

John Sollenberger

John was mowing a gas station lawn in Wichita on Memorial Day when he was killed. He was hit by a truck which bounced over the curb after striking a car

John was a man of nature,
A true mountaineer,
He was a friend to everyone.
He was a friend who cared.
His Mom and Dad he loved so much!
And never did get into Dutch.
He tried to help them in every way
And said, "I love you," every day.

JUST ONE MORE

As ominous clouds pass overhead, the lights in the school shine bright.

"Life is a one way street, and you never have a chance to travel back over it."-Anonymous.

We cannot relive the school year; however, we do have memories to hold on to. It is the hope of the 1981 Yearbook Staff that the memories which we have captured from the first sunrise to the last sunset will be forever meaningful.

Sincerely,
Julia Armstrong
Editor

The image displays a repeating pattern of a yellowed, tilted card template, likely for a letter to Santa Claus. The card is oriented diagonally and contains the following text and checkboxes:

- Top section:
 - Well, wasn't it a ☐ fun ☐ monotonous ☐ school with you
 - It was great sharing all the ☐ fun ☐ monotonous ☐ school with you
 - It will be ☐ nice ☐ disappointing ☐ to have some classes with you next year
 - I hope you ☐ have fun ☐ don't bother me this summer
 - Be sure to ☐ break an arm ☐ come over ☐ call ☐ go fly a kite ☐ drop dead
- Middle section:
 - And stay out of ☐ trouble ☐ my sight
 - Till then, ☐ Luv Ya. ☐ Best Wishes. ☐ Get Lost ☐ Who Cares?
- Bottom section:
 - Signature _____
 - P.S. _____

The card is repeated multiple times across the page, creating a dense, overlapping pattern. The text is printed in a simple, sans-serif font, and the checkboxes are small squares.
